Korean War Veterans Dedicate Memorial in South Korea

By Alley E. Watada

On May 15 this year, more than 100 Japanese American veterans of the Korean War and their families attended the dedication of the Japanese American Korean War Veterans (JAKWV) memorial monument and memorial service for American soldiers of Japanese ancestry killed or missing in action in the Korean War. The monument is located at Imjin-gak, Paju City, Kyonggi-do, Republic of Korea.

Carved in black granite are the names of 247 men killed or missing in the Korean War, 192 from Hawaii. The monument is capped with carvings of the American and Korean flags and carries the inscription, “Americans of Japanese ancestry who gave their lives in the defense and freedom of the Republic of Korea” in English and Korean.

Edward M. Nakata, vice president of the JAKWV, and Korean War Memorial Committee chair, served as master of ceremonies of the program. Opening remarks were made by Minoru Tonai, JAKWV president. Chaplain Sam Seno gave the invocation and benediction.

The monument was unveiled by Yeiki Oshiro, Herbert Ogasawara, Hideo Sasaki and Alley E. Watada and their spouses, the South Korea Remembers

Lawsuit

The Oreste “Rusty” Tramonte lawsuit filed against the KWVA in the Massachusetts Federal Court has been dismissed. There was no cost to the KWVA as our insurance handled the case.

The case Myrda vs KWVA is just about over as CPA Myrda does not have a contract with KWVA. Our Attorney is going to file a motion to dismiss. This will put all of our troubles behind us.

When I was elected president my motto was “Forget the mistakes of the past and press on to greater achievements in the future” I believe we have been successful as we have paid all our past bills and have sound financial management.

There is unity in the Executive Council and the membership. We are moving in a positive direction.

Las Vegas Midwinter Meeting

The midwinter Executive Council meeting held in Las Vegas on January 13, through January 16, 2002 was very successful. We chose Las Vegas because we wanted to have a meeting with the KWVA Chapters on the West Coast.

The room rates were great only $20.00 per night plus tax. The Honor Guard from Nevada National Guard presented the Colors.

There were three great programs. One was Secretary of Veterans Affairs Honorable Anthony Principi, then from Department of Defense (DPMO) Col. Woodier and Major Jackson gave a presentation on recovery of remains in North Korea and Col. Jeffery Douglass representing the Department of Defense 50th Commemoration Committee outlined some up and coming 50th commemoration events.

Anyone from the audience was given a chance to express their concerns to the Executive Council. Everyone had a good time some had a better time, like the guy at the card table next to mine, he won $30,000.00

Reunion

This year we will be at the Doubletree Hotel in Crystal City on Army-Navy Drive. The Armed Forces Reunion Co. is handling all the arrangements.

On January 4th the Reunion Committee and I met with the Doubletree staff and the Armed Forces Committee and everything is confirmed.

The only thing we need is for a lot of KWVA members and Korean War Veterans to attend. The Armed Forces Committee will be handling the registration, making name tags, transportation, events and tours.

There will be a free welcome reception party on the 25th July. You must be registered to attend. The time will be from 5:30 until 7:00 pm.

There will be several tours and memorial services. The registration form is in this issue of The Graybeards. Plan on attending.

Donation

The Federation of Korean Industries donated 1 million dollars to the New York Disaster Relief Fund in honor of the Korean War Veterans. Sherm Pratt and Don Byers represented the KWVA and Jack Murry made a few remarks representing KWVA Chapter 100 of VA. Maryland Chapter Color Guard presented the Colors.

Elections

In this issue of The Graybeards are Candidates running for office. There are several that are running for re-election or other positions that have been instrumental in turning the KWVA around in a positive direction. Members of the Executive Council have supported my appointments to the offices of Treasurer, Secretary, Judge Advocate, Finance Committee, Nomination Committee, By-Laws Committee, Membership and Chapter formation, and the Editor of the Graybeards.

The two most important appointments are the Treasurer and the Editor of the Graybeards. Our Treasurer Tom Gregory has been responsible for bringing over $80,000.00 to the KWVA in interest money. Vincent Krepps the Editor of the Graybeards has produced the finest Veterans Magazine. The Graybeards when passed around has brought in many new members.

We are going into our final years of the 50th anniversary of the ending of the Korean War. We want this to be the greatest celebration in remembrance of the ones that did not

My devotion and efforts to provide you, the membership and readers a magazine that remembers the Korean War, those that fought in that war, including those that still defend the freedoms enjoyed today in Korea and most of all to those that paid the supreme sacrifice.

Rules to follow:
I will avoid letters that are negative toward our association and the veterans that fought in the Korean War. Thanks for caring.

/s/ Vince Krepps

If you go back to Aug-Sept 1997 and several issues thereafter you will find the above rule and statement as part of my first message as editor. I am starting my 5th year, so I guess you agreed with the above rule. I stopped printing the Editor’s Pen rules after several issues because I was taking space away from our members. After two (2) years of reading some e-mails and letters from those that have an ax to grind I must respond with this Editor’s Pen.

Several past and present officers, also members that will remain nameless have circulated their views on President Coon’s actions over the past few years. Seeing several Executive Boards and Presidents in action during these past 10 years I have not seen anything new. All have had their detractors and dissenters. During President Coon’s years in office he has restored our association to financial health and has established KWVA as a veterans organization of high standing.

President Coon was given a slate of major problems. This required stepping on some toes and making changes. As usual stepping on toes and making changes caused those that were in some way related to the problems to rally and attempt to block President Coons actions and even in some cases disrupt scheduled meetings, agenda and the business of our National Association.

To make a long story short, in order to keep the KWVA’s business going several of these dissenters were relieved of their duty for the “Good Of The Order” of your association. Needless to say they did not go quietly, they only found a support group to continue the disruption. We now have lawsuits against several officers and a whole gauntlet of innuendos. These dissenters are not even 1/4 of 1% of our membership.

Now to my feelings.

Harley is running again for a third term. I have seen opinions pertaining to By-Laws, Meetings, Judge Advocate Rulings and Membership from both sides of the fence. Even past KWVA haters joined the fight. We even have those standing on the fence not wanting to offend anyone.

There will be no harm caused to the KWVA by your vote of allowing President Coon a third term or even a one year extension and this has been done before for similar reasons. This will also allow KWVA and President Coon to pursue our National Charter, close those pending lawsuits and turn over to the next president a clean slate.

I will stop here and also throw the ball into your court. With your vote you can decide if President Harley Coon will and should carry on the business of commemorating you, our members and veterans, through 2003, ...

Here in Maryland the KWVA has been denied acceptance in the Joint Veterans Committee simply because the State requires all members be Congressionally chartered.

To Fellow Korean War Veterans:

Let me take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all those members who sent messages and cards during my recent illness. It has put a crimp in my activities for several months, however, I am doing good now and looking forward to picking up my participation in KWVA events.

Needless to say the terrible events of 9/11 has also put a crimp in our efforts to achieve a National Charter. Comrades, the full truth is do we really care whether we get one or not.

During my illness I put out another message pleading all members to get involved and to meet with your Congressman during the holiday break and do whatever was necessary to have them get on board as a co-sponsor on House Bill 952. As of today I have heard from only three members who have taken the initiative to help out.

Comrades, I know that a Charter may not be of use to the veterans of our age, however, the younger Korean veterans may need to be recognized by Congress in the future. Another issue to consider is the fact that some states will not recognize the KWVA because they don’t have a charter.

Here in Maryland the KWVA has been denied acceptance in the Joint Veterans Committee simply because the State requires all members be Congressionally chartered. I will repeat again, long after the Vietnam veterans are gone and there are no more Desert Storm troops, we will still have Korean veterans and the Korean War is still officially going on.

Won’t you help me out - we now have 46 co-sponsors and we need 219 to force HB952 out of the sub-committee to the full house. Do it now

Blair

By-Law Change

The proposed change was reported and was approved by the Executive Council during the meeting held in Las Vegas, NV on January 14-15, 2002. It should now be reported in The Graybeards, for consideration by members present at the annual meeting to be held in Crystal City, VA during July 2002.

The proposed amendment change is to ARTICLE III, Section 7, Paragraph J. Committees, to include the Bylaws Committee under the list of Standing Committees.

National VA/VS Representative Report

By Michael Mahoney

The semi-annual reports are still coming in, starting this year, we will start the reports in April and October. The reason for the change is that is when I receive the VAVS Report from the VA. That way I can cross-check the hours, volunteers, etc. against them. Also, I am requesting that participating Chapters send a copy of their rosters for verification of the Volunteers being credited to them.

I have been having problems with compliance of V.A. Handbook 1620.1 on the eligibility of volunteers not belonging to national. You must belong to National in order to be credited to a Chapter.

I wish to acknowledge the Ladies of Northwest Illinois Chapter 150 for their work in volunteering. They are not recognized as such but they still go out and do a great job. At present, I am trying to get them to appoint a Rep under 318, our auxiliary activity. Last 6 months, they have donated 1,535 hours, drove 7,968 miles and a cash and in kind value of $20,559.00. Good Work! While I am at it, Nassau Chapter 1, 11 volunteers, 8,321 hours, $6,500.00 spent on Parties, Bingo, etc. plus in kind donations of $4,323.00. Thank you, Shirley Gravin.

God Bless you all.

This reproduction is printed on Fredrix canvas, mounted on a 3/8 “ Medex museum quality panel, and is complete with a 2 3/4” frame. Because it is printed on actual artists’ canvas it has the rich appearance and texture of an original oil painting. A Certificate of Authenticity signed by the artist is included which shows the number of the print in the limited 350 print edition. This stirring painting, done by an eyewitness to the historic event, was the cover illustration of the April 2001 Graybeards publication of The National Korean War Veterans Association. Gerald F. Doyle is a professional artist and teacher, and was on board Glendale during the evacuation. His story, and that of the painting, were featured in that same issue.

The image size is 12”x 16”. The overall size including the frame is 17 1/2” x 21 1/2”. The handsome wooden frame is stained walnut with 2 lines of dark decorative beading and an inset of natural linen lining. The picture is ready to hang. The cost of the framed print including shipping and handling is $165.00, payable by check or money order only. Maryland residents add 5% sales tax.

Reproductions of Glendale at Hungnam are also available as 4 1/4” x 6 “ postcards. A pack of 10 postcards costs $16.00.

A second reproduction, Glendale at Inchon, shows Glendale sinking a suspected mine-laying junk in a dramatic night engagement is in the Korean War Exhibit Hall, Baltimore War Memorial Building and will be released as a companion print in the near future. However reproductions of Glendale at Inchon are available now as postcards in packs of 10 for $16.00.

The Reunion Committee are pleased to announce the site selected for our 18th Annual Reunion. After review of several hotels, their locations, costs, etc. the reunion committee members selected The DoubleTree Hotel in Crystal City. The address is 300 Army Navy Drive, Arlington, VA 22202. There were many reasons for choosing this hotel but the most important one was location. It is very near to our National Memorial in D.C., major airports, great shopping and eateries. This and other locations were visited and we all feel you will be pleased with our selection.

As we move forward in the upcoming weeks we will be publishing more on this location, the activities, registration forms and many other important details. We hope you will start your planning to join your fellow veterans and friends in July 2002 at our 18th Annual Reunion. We expect all will be in the March-April issue of The Graybeards.

Thank You.

Dear members and readers:

Articles from newspapers take a lot of time to scan and most are too long to retype. Photos from newspapers also do not copy well. I tend to use original photos and articles that are typewritten in lower case. I must optically scan text into the computer and it helps when articles are typed well and length kept to a minimum.—Editor.

Dear Mr. Coon:

Representatives of my office and I met with a team from North Korea in Bangkok January 23 - 26, 2002 to negotiate the terms and conditions for U.S.-North Korea joint recovery operations in North Korea during calendar year 2002. My goal was to, "create a mutually acceptable framework that maximizes our opportunity to safely and successfully resolve the fates of Americans still missing in Korea."

Although we were able to agree on many of our objectives, most importantly new enhanced procedures for ensuring the safety and security of our personnel, we were unable to reach an agreement on compensation. The atmosphere was often tense; for example, when the North Korean delegation was not boycotting scheduled proceedings, they were pressing for apologies and renouncement of Administration positions regarding issues impacting U.S.-North Korean relations. However, I made it clear to the North Korean delegation that it is the strong desire of the Administration that we try to improve relations and continue and expand our recovery efforts in North Korea. I am optimistic that we will meet again in the near future, but we will meet only when I am convinced the North Koreans will come prepared to negotiate in good faith.

We pressed five priority issues throughout the negotiations: enhance the safety and security of personnel participating in recovery operations; increase the flexibility, duration, frequency and coverage of recovery operations (including expanding operations into the eastern and western parts of the Chosin Reservoir and at least one former POW camp); enhance the scientific integrity of excavation sites (i.e., eliminate site tampering); increase access to, and enhance the quality of information important to U.S. accounting and identification efforts; and improve procedures for repatriating remains. I also pushed the North Koreans for a mechanism to resolve live sighting incidents, to support visits by American veterans and family groups, and to recognize that we expect American women to fully participate in our operations.

In the end, the North Korean delegation confirmed my suspicions that they were not seriously negotiating when they proposed that we compensate them with $14 million for 2002 operations-an amount greater than three times as much as the U.S. paid for comparable recovery operations last year. Acceding to North Korea's demands would have dishonored the sacrifice of those American heroes whose remains we seek.

We will continue our efforts to achieve the fullest possible accounting for Americans still missing as a result of the Korean War. I am confident that markers we laid down during the meetings in Bangkok will lead to success in future negotiations, under terms and conditions worthy of America's strength and values.

I appreciate the support the Korean War Veterans Association has given the Defense POW/Missing Personnel Office. More importantly, I appreciate your advocacy for the soldiers, sailors, airmen, and Marines who are still unaccounted for. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call me.

Sincerely,

/S/ Jerry D. Jennings

During the first week of August 1950 the stage was set for one of the decisive battles of the Korean War. General Walton H. Walker had withdrawn his U.N. troops to the Pusan Perimeter and told them: “There will be no more retreating, withdrawal, or readjustment of lines... We must fight until the end.” The North Korean commander, Marshal Choe Yong Gun, was prepared to do everything he could to hasten that day and ensure that end. For several years the marshal had served with the Chinese Communist 8th Route Army; he decided to employ their human-wave tactics to overwhelm and annihilate his enemy. Marshal Choe’s plan was to coil around the entire length of Walker’s defense line then attack simultaneously all along the front. By the end of August the marshal had concentrated 98,000 troops and more than 100 tanks for the assault. Just after nightfall on 31 August, he struck. Twenty-nine thousand North Korean troops came dogtrotting toward the 2nd Infantry Division.

By dawn on 1 September the enemy forces had broken through our left flank, cutting overland communications between the 2nd Division and the 1st Marine Division. By 0600 we had been ordered to find out how far the North Koreans had penetrated and in what strength. Captain James R. Dew, commanding C Company, 72nd Tank Battalion, was not known for issuing lengthy, elaborate orders. He told me: “Take your 2nd platoon and go south until you are stopped by enemy fire or you reach elements of the 1st Marine Division.” But he did add that the tank battalion operations officer was inquiring about infantry troops available to accompany us on the mission.

While we were waiting for the operations officer to find some infantrymen, a message came through that an enemy tank attack was imminent. At first light, a 2nd Division artillery observer had taken off in a small plane to search for targets. He reported he could clearly see four T-34 tanks and some North Korean troops on the road advancing toward us from the north. The observer said the enemy was six miles north of 2nd Division Artillery Fire Direction Center. I knew where that was. I was with the company commander when he received the message by radio. Captain Dew turned to me and said: “Go up and stop them.”

As we raced north, we passed the 2nd Division FDC; just across the road a 105-mm battery was firing a mission toward the Naktong River area. I was searching for firing positions far enough north to protect the personnel at FDC so they could continue supporting 2nd Division operations, and would not be endangered during the battle. Now we were moving at about 35 miles an hour. On the run, we had to spot firing positions for 5 tanks. We rounded a curve, and there they were just off the road. Without stopping, we climbed a hill and occupied a level piece of ground in an apple orchard. The men maneuvered the tanks under the apple trees for concealment. We could see the surface of the road for at least a mile north. We had no infantrymen; such long-range fields of fire would permit us to inflict maximum casualties as the enemy task force advanced toward our position.

I kept looking north to spot a dust cloud or any evidence of enemy activity. Then I saw a frail old woman leave a mud hut at the bottom of the hill. Crippled by age, she carried a cane to help her shuffle along the pathway, stopping to rest after just a few steps. Slowly, she began to climb the hill toward us. I was surprised to see any civilians remaining. At least a week earlier the South Korean authorities had evacuated the inhabitants for their own protection. When the Koreans were forced to leave an area they normally helped the elderly and infirm. If no other transportation was available, the villagers banded together and carried out the disabled piggyback. I was puzzled by the described scene.

I asked the soldier what she was saying. He replied “Kara” means “Get to hell out of here.” He explained that we were in her apple orchard and she demanded that we leave.

Under the glare from the illumination shells, the night was bright as day. It was an eerie light, fitting the nightmarish battle taking place on the small hill. Gaiser joined Bryson at the firing aperture within seconds of the sappers’ explosions. He hadn’t even taken time to pull on his boon-dockers. The Chinese were so thick he didn’t have to aim his M-1; it was almost impossible not to hit one. He fired as fast as he could squeeze the trigger.

“Get some grenades ready!” Bryson yelled over the din of the battle. He could make out the distinctive sound of the squad’s three BARs as they tore into the charging enemy soldiers. Bet Hosey’s in hog heaven now, he thought. The light machine gun in the bunker behind him chattered away steadily, spraying the forward slope with its deadly stream of lead. A Chinese grenade exploded in front of Bryson’s bunker, sending a spray of dirt and steel splinters through the firing aperture. A small piece sliced across his cheek; it stung but didn’t hurt him badly. “Throw grenades!” he yelled, then grabbed one from the ledge beneath the aperture, pulled the pin and lobbed it out the opening. He ducked and when the grenade exploded, popped up and threw another one. When that one detonated, Bryson went back to firing his M-1.

Gaiser jumped out of the bunker into the trench with an armload of grenades, which he dropped at his feet. He began...
Missouri Remembers

Above, O’Fallon, Missouri War Memorial. Several local Veteran Asns took part in the dedication including the KWVA. Part of the memorial is 70 pairs of Bronze Combat Boots (right) representing local KIA’s and the near one for a MIA.

(Thank you Curtis J. Farley for photos and letter. Not sure what war this memorial is for but it sure is beautiful and unique.)

On Nov. 17, KWVA chapters participated in a dedication and unveiling of our most recent addition, two polished black granite monuments. Those shown in photo above are members of MO Chapter #1 St Louis, MO Chapter #3 Antonio, MO Chapter #4 Florissant and MO Chapter #6 St Charles. The gentleman at the far right of the photo is Renovation Chairman, Paul S Phillips. Paul is past Commander of MO Chapter # 1 and the Dept of Missouri. The funding for the two monuments was made possible by Rose of Sharon fund raising programs conducted by Chapters named.

(Thank you Don Gutmann for photo and letter. Great additions to super memorial.)

Colorado Remembers

Chapter members form an honor guard in front of their memorial following a wreath laying ceremony on a Memorial Day.

Chapter members and officers added benches to their memorial in Memorial Park.

The Dutch Nelsen Chapter, KWVA, Colorado Springs, Co., established a monument “To Honor Those Who Fought In The Korean War” in 1996. In 2001 they added two benches to compliment their memorial stone. One bench reads “America’s Forgotten War” The other bench reads “Freedom Is Not Free.” The memorial and benches may be seen in Memorial Park, 300 So. Union Blvd. Colorado Springs Co. When the money was being raised to establish this memorial, a former Korean houseboy, and now a successful businessman in Korea contributed $5,000. Ceremonies are held at the Memorial several times each year. (Thank you Scott L. Defebaugh for photos and letter. We know all of you must be proud of the memorial. So much that you keep adding to it which is great. We owe much to South Koreans and our Korean Americans for what they do to remember us. I believe the houseboy now businessman in Korea is Mr. Baik whom I met in Korea in December 1998 and toured his hat factory. I did a little article on him in photos in a past issue and plan to do a whole lot more, including some of his story.)

Ohio Remembers

Kansas Remembers

Harold Montgomery, Co. K, 21st REGT., 24th Inf. Div., died as a POW in Korea, 3 Jan. 1951, his body has never been found or returned. His name appears on Johnson’s List as being from Madera, CA. This is where his wife (now deceased) and his daughter lived upon their return from Japan. His daughter Sandy Ditto of Highland, CA, says that the family was told that her father gave up his food rations to younger prisoners and as a result he starved to death and that her mother had the Tombstone placed in the Chanute cemetery where Harold and other members of his family had lived so that he would never be forgotten. My parents are buried about 100 yards from this tombstone and I noticed it when visiting the cemetery. It touched me and I needed to share this loving action on behalf of his family. This is indeed one way “The Forgotten War” will be remembered. Scott L. Defebaugh President Dutch Nelsen Chapter, Colorado Springs CO. (Thank you Scott for photo and note. Now we can all remember Harold Montgomery.)

The next is to put in an all Kern Veterans Memorial Park at 2.5 million dollars and our third phase will be to put in the memorial for the fifty five that were KIA from Kern Co.

(Thank you Neal Vance for photos and letter. Super looking sign and I wish you much success with the others. Great project.)

I am submitting my name for Re-Election as National President

Term starting July 27, 2002 ending July 26, 2004

My record speaks for itself. Three years ago when I took office the KWVA was in poor financial condition. Since then I have formed a finance committee and have had controlled spending. The KWVA now has more money than ever, over $600,000 in the savings and checking and all bills have been paid. The membership had fallen off to about 13,000. Today our membership is over 17,000 members and growing at a rate of approximately 100 new members per month Our Chapters have increased 67 new Chapters for a total of 220 Chapters plus. Continue The Graybeards as one of the best veterans magazine printed. I would like to continue to lead the KWVA in a positive direction. If I am re-

I would hope to give each and every issue thorough consideration before making a decision, taking, whenever necessary, advice from fellow members. Candidates for 2nd Vice President

Thomas Clawson

My abbreviated personal profile stating qualifications for office of 2nd V.P. follows; Graduated from University of Minnesota, served as Superintendent Municipal Parks and Recreation, retired from the State of Minnesota, Administered programs in the Dept. of Natural Resources & Trade & Economic Development.

KWVA and Veteran involvement includes, Life Member KWVA (#6090) and MN Korean War Veterans #1 (served as Past President 1991-1993) & member of American Legion & VFW. Served as KWVA First Vice President four years (1994-1998) and as KWVA Director three years (1999-2001)

Through out these seven years, served on many committees, served on our KWVA Reunions, participated totally in the support of the National Korean War Veterans Memorial in Washington D.C. and it’s dedication July 27, 1995. Those who attended the KWVA Reunion understand the Herculean tasks that promoted one of the best reunions. In representing KWVA-USA at the 5th General Assembly of Korean War Veterans and Executive Board meetings in Seoul, Korea, these meetings were reported in “The Graybeards”. On July 27, 1998 I was honored by the South Korean Veterans Association by receiving their Medal as “An Honorary Membership” (V-98-2) of the Association. Hard work, a positive attitude, was the results achieved which formed my goals for the interest of KWVA.

To achieve continued cooperation within the KWVA will require a team approach. Thus I strongly support State Chapters & Departments which perpetuate reasonable goals and abide by the KWVA By-Laws. A need is evident to retain a professional “Parliamentarian” to be at all the Associations Executive Committee & General Membership meetings to provide proper reasoning.

We must work toward Harmony and continue the spirit of comradeship within KWVA.

I will attend all called meetings of the Executive Council & I understand that two unexcused absences could be for removal from office.
Respectfully Submitted,
Thomas Clawson LR06090

Kenneth B. Cook

It is my intent to run for the position of 2nd Vice President of the KWVA Inc. for the year 2002-2004.

I was born in Danville, Illinois, on January 13, 1930. My wife Katherine is now deceased, we were married for 42 years. I have 4 children, 5 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild on the way. I am a retired over-the-road truck driver.

I was drafted into the Army on August 15, 1951. I took my basic training at Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Aberdeen, Maryland. I attended the C.B.R. (chemical, biological, and radiology) Warfare School in Japan. I arrived in Korea on May 1, 1952, and was assigned to the 195th Depot Ordinance Company, 74th Ordinance Battalion, and 8th Army Main Depot, in Ascomcity, Korea. I departed Korea on June 1, 1953 and was discharged on July 9, 1953.

I am a life member of the KWVA, membership #LR1764, since 1988.

I am currently President of the Illinois KWVA State Department and serve the KWVA as National Director 2000-2002. I have previously held the office of 2nd Vice President 1998-2000 and National Director 1993-1998. I was President of the Robert Wurtsbaugh KWVA Chapter in Danville, Illinois, for 8 years.

I am a Director of the Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library in Tuscola, Illinois and a Director of the Amerasian Children’s Orphanage (MACK) in Chicago, Illinois.

Listening to the members, reading and understanding the by-laws and a little common sense will solve most of our problems. E-mail and letter writing only cause confusion and gossip.

I understand the current by-laws of the KWVA Inc. and that I must attend all called meetings of the Executive Council and that two unexcused absences could be used for my removal from said office.
Respectfully submitted,
Kenneth B. Cook LR01764

James E. Ferris

As a candidate for a three-year term as your National Director starting in 2002, I, Michael J. (Mike) Glazzy, present this brief summary of my diverse career to the general membership for consideration. My experience working with budgets, costs of doing-business and management, as an employee and employer, will be a valuable asset in working with the Executive Council.

Born and raised in the State of Ohio, voluntarily enlisted June 1948, as a 17 years young high school graduate, in the United States Marine Corps. Schooled at MCRD in electronics and radar, volunteered as a radar technician July 1951 to serve with the 1st Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea at Pohang, rising to the rank of sergeant. After an honorable discharge June 1952, received an electrical engineering degree from Youngstown State University, Ohio, June 1958, using the GI bill.

As a 1989 charter member of the Santa Clara County Chapter #6 - San Jose and a life member (LR05656) of the National, I’ve served as chapter president and eight terms as treasurer. Also, I’ve served, as Senior Vice Commandant, for the Marine Corps League detachment in Hayward, California, and Finance Officer for the American Legion post in Campbell, California. Have participated in community service programs with Our City Forest tree-plantings throughout the City of San Jose and as a teacher’s assistant at a local grammar school.

I will ask the membership to support my desires: to increase membership through chapter formations in the western states, form regional directorates, promote National reunions within these regions, monitor budgets and finances, advocate uncensored reporting in the Graybeards and review twentieth century policies as they will in the twenty-first century. Of course, my desires will be your desires, all “for the good of the order.”

I will serve the membership in accordance with the National bylaws and honor the requirement to attend all meetings, called in a timely manner, by the Executive Council with the stipulation that two unexcused absences could be grounds for removal from office.

Respectfully submitted,
Mike Glazzy LR05656

James F. “Jim” Jones, Jr.

I hereby announce my candidacy for a second term as a Director of the KWVA, to serve the 2002-2005 term.

Prior to my first term as a Director, I helped to organize, in 1997, the Greater Richmond, VA Chapter, Chapter 143. I have continued to serve as chapter president since, during which time I been unable to convince someone else to run for the office. During the same time, I led the fight to persuade the Virginia Governor and the Commonwealth General Assembly to designate, maintain, and erect signs along Interstate 295 in Virginia and to rule that it be permanently called The Korean War Veterans’ Memorial Highway. Thanks to the hard work of Chapter 143 that effort was successful.

During my first term as a Director, I served on the Budget/Finance Committee, and I believe, we as a functioning committee, aided in the improvement of control and accountability of the funds of the members. I feel that my experience in accounting and management helped my understanding of the functions of the present Treasurer and the Finance Committee.

I served as Chairman of the Bylaws Committee, and endeavored to make decisions and to take actions that I felt best served the organization and the requests of the general membership. This was during the period following the financial debacle suffered by the organization before an effective Treasurer and Finance Committee was established, and also when necessary changes were needed in the bylaws to protect the association from returning to the grasp of some of those responsible for it’s past troubles. I make no apologies for my actions or my votes on the Executive Council.

Past Employment:
- Emery Air Freight Corp. Virginia District Manager
- First Dominion Life Insurance Co. - Loan Manager, FLMI, Supv. Policyowner Service
- Secretary-Treasurer- H & H Equipment Co.

Education:
- Accounting Diploma - Kings Business College, Associate Degree - Business Administration - J. Sergeant Reynolds Community College, B.S. - Business Administration - Virginia Commonwealth University and U.S. Army Signal School - Fort Monmouth, NJ.

During the Korean War, I served as Security NCO, Repeaterman, and later as acting Sgt. Mgr. of a high frequency radio relay battalion, under the 8th Army and, for a period, was attached to I Corps. I participated in three campaigns.

I will attend all called meetings of the Executive Council and I understand that two unexcused absences could be used for removal from offices.

Respectfully Submitted,
James F. (Jim) Jones, Jr. LR16683

I have worked for General Electric in their Aircraft Gas Turbine Division in Cincinnati, Ohio and then with General Dynamics Aircraft Division in Fort Worth, Texas as a Test Engineer. During my 35 years of service I progressed to the position of Engineering Chief of the Fluid Dynamics Laboratory where I had 28 Engineers under my supervision. I have been active in Management Clubs, Institute of Environmental Sciences, Church, Little League Baseball, Meals on Wheels and many other community projects where I have served as President, Board Member, Committee Chairperson, Secretary and Treasurer and other positions. All have been conducted with integrity and completed with success.

I believe I have the experience to work on the Executive Council and with committees, individuals, Chapters, financial situations, and organizational problems. I have found that common sense is often lacking in some officials elected into positions of responsibility and have always tried to solve problems with common sense. I wish now to direct my time in helping the National Korean War Veterans Association to become a more Chapter-oriented Association. One that will invite Chapters to bring their problems and desires to the Executive Council for consideration and expect to receive common sense answers or solutions. We then as an Association will continue to grow, and become an excellent Association, to better serve our fellow Korean War Veterans, Chapters, communities and the nation.

I understand the By-Laws of the Korean War Veterans Association and will work to make sure they are followed and I recognize that I must attend all called meetings of the Executive Council. I also understand that should I miss three consecutive unexcused Executive Council meetings that I will have been considered to have resigned and two unexcused absences could be used for removal of office for just cause.

Sincerely,
William F. Mac Swain LR26546

I hereby submit my name and resume for the office of Director Korean War Veterans Assn. I have served as a director for two, three year terms. This past year the Executive board voted for me to fill the position as 2nd Vice President to finish Ed Grygier’s term. Now that term will be up at the conclusion of the 2002 re-union.

I have been the finance chairman for National KWVA for the last 32 years. I helped to make sure that KWVA money as a non profit group was used correctly, and that we had safeguards on our accounts so that no, one person would have control of our KWVA money.

I am the President/Treasurer of Wisconsin Korean War Memorial and our books are audit-ed by the Wisconsin Dept. of Veteran Affairs. So you can see I have some knowledge how to keep track of money and especially that it is spent in a legal way and that it conforms to our 501c tax free organization and that we comply with the IRS rules.

I have also been on the National Disabled American Veterans Executive Committee for four years and in one of those years I was elected to the DAV National Finance Committee. I went through all of the chairs in both my chap-ter and Dept. and became the Dept. Commander for the state of Wisconsin . I belong to many veteran organizations including VFW, Cooties, AmVets, WAC Vets Assn., Am. Legion and a member of Women in Military Service Org. I belong to the Milwaukee Allied Veterans Council, which includes over 20 veteran organizations. I held the office of President. I was selected Milwaukee County Veteran of the year in 1994.

My military service was in the army from 1950-1952 and had communication training in Camp Gordon, GA. I served most of my tour in Germany in EUCOM communication hqds. I worked for eight years as a DAV VAVS Deputy Representative at Milwaukee VA Hospital, putting in about 10,000 hours. I continue to help veterans in anyway that I can.

I lost quite a few of my classmates from Camp Gordon communications school. I have tried to honor the dead by serving the living. I will always promote the National Korean Memorial and all other memorials for Korean Veterans. I will try to educate and keep the history of the Korean War Veterans alive for future generations, in hopes that we will never have another Korean War.

I will attend all meetings, and vote for the good of KWVA. I want to continue to be a part of the solution. I would appreciate your vote. Thanks for your consideration.

Maurice R. “Dick” Wainwright

This letter is to inform the membership of KWVA of my intention to run for the position of National Director for the term of July 27, 2002 ending July 27, 2005.

My qualifications for this position include organizing a KWVA chapter in Tucson, the Department of Arizona and serving in many positions at the local and state levels.
I was involved in the construction of the Pima County Korean War Memorial in Tucson and in the program that presented the Korean American Cultural Foundation 50th Anniversary of the Korean War Medallion. I was elected a National Director in 1993 in the first election using ballots from the members. I served in that capacity until the term ended in 1996.

For 1994 elections I was appointed Chairmen of the Nominating and Elections Committee. I served in that position and as Co-Chairman for eight years. I was involved in editing the by-laws especially that section that concerned the national elections. The last two elections were flawed by decisions that effected the voting of the membership. As a concerned member I made my views known but to no avail.

If elected, I hope to bring an understanding to the Council that our by-laws must be followed and if amended changed in the proper way. I also want the Council to put a plan into effect that will establish a line of communications with the various departments and chapters in KWVA.

I ask for your support and hope you will tell me your concerns.

Sincerely,
Maurice R “Dick” Wainwright, LR06712

Warren H. Wiedhahn

I hereby announce as a candidate for the office of National Director of the KWVA, I am a life member of the association and I served in Korea in 1950 as Private First Class (PFC) at the Pusan Perimeter, Inchon Landing, Liberation of Seoul and the Chosin Reservoir. A copy of my DD 214 is enclosed indicating that I served honorably for over 33 years in the U.S. Marine Corps.

I was recently elected by the KWVA Executive Council to fill the un-expired position of a Director who unfortunately had to resign for health reasons. His term was to expire at the annual meeting in July 2002.

I currently hold the position of Chairman of the Association Revisit Korea committee and administrator the applications for all KWVA members desiring to take advantage of the KVA (Seoul, Korea) sponsored tours that began in 1975. These subsided tours are funded by the ROK government to express their gratitude in recognition of all the sacrifices made by the veterans of the countries who participated in the war from 1950 to 1953.

I have been working for Korean War Veterans and their families for the past forty years. As long as my health permits, I will continue to work for their benefits!

I am proud to be a Korean War Veteran and if elected I will attend all called meetings of the Executive Council and understand that two (2) unexcused absences could be used for my removal from office.

Respectfully submitted
Warren H. Wiedhahn, LR06555

A letter from a hero

Dear Mom & Dad

I'm sorry I haven't written its been cold here for about 3 weeks and boy when it rains it rains for about 3 or 4 days at a time. I'm okay except for being froze, that's one reason I haven't written. I couldn't hold the pen and it was hard writing with gloves on. I know it's been a long time since I wrote last and I'm sorry for it, I've started quite a few letters but had to stop because 1 was cold. This is the first winter I've slept on the ground and from the looks of things its going to be quite a long time before 1 hit the states again. I keep thinking of the warm bed & dry blankets. When it rains back home all 1 want to do for a week or two is eat & sleep but that comes later 1 guess. You said “you hope I don't lose anymore weight” Ha I've lost so much now you wouldn't know me now.

1 hope you save the important news clippings on this Korea War. "Red Jets" are no good Mom, don't believe those clippings. They aren't all true. I don't know where they get there info at but I read a page or two and I know for a fact that its a lie. Some of it may be true but not all of it. I'm glad you sent me something to eat. 1 get food there but its not enough you know me. 1 live like a "hermit" now anyway. There are three of us in the hills as guard and every other day one of us goes after water & food. The other night it hailed and blew our tent down. Yes your letters get through all right. Right now I have four of them in my lap “answering them” Oct 21, Oct 24, Oct 27, Oct 31.

Well, Mom, I still have faith in God and although I can't go to church here in Korea 1 have the “New Testament Psalms” with me in my shirt pocket and to me it means just about everything. It was given to me by the girl down in Texas. By this time the girl is married now too. It seems like every girl I ever knew or went out with is married now. How is Buster & his wife getting along. 1 received a letter from Buster. I hope he still writes to me over here. Up there in North Korea there are nothing but mountains and valleys, rocks & dirt. It's getting cloudy again. I guess its going to do something.

Well most persons about my age like to run around a lot see things and so forth. I think in fact I know that when I get back “out of the service” I'll get me a home in VT or some place about the size of our old place and settle down. I've seen all 1 want to see and done all the running around I want to now. I can't tell you where we are but on the front. I'll explain it to you some day you know what 1 mean. How is LaLa doing in school now? 1 hope she still likes it. I haven't time and when I do get time its too cold to write to her. Tell her 1 sure do appreciate the gum she puts in her letters. What happened to the other two sticks of gum in your letters there was only three Ha Ha Ha.

Thanks. Well that all for now. Take care of yourself & Dad.

May God Bless You And Keep You Always.

With Love
Always Albert

(Note: As mentioned in Albert’s letter, Buster is his brother, Charles, (my father). My parents married on July 29, 1950 just two days after Albert left Ft. Lewis, WA for Korea. LaLa, is Albert’s sister, Lillian.)

Granddaughter looks great in grandfathers old uniform

When Donna Weber graduated this past October from Barbizon Modeling School in New Jersey, she needed a Military uniform to model as part of her graduation. Her grandfather, Joe Farriella, gave her his dress uniform he wore fifty years ago when he came home. It fit perfectly and she wore it proudly, causing quite a sensation at the graduation because it was an original uniform.

SFC Farriella served in Korea in 1953 with the 40th Division. He was T.D.Y. to Headquarters Company where he picked up the Stars and Stripes and the mail in Seoul to bring to the forward 38th parallel Division. When the 40th was ordered home, his remaining time was spent with the 24th Infantry Division at a replacement depot center where he was in charge of supplying electricity to the entire camp...code name danger 1. He is now retired from his service station business and moved from Brooklyn, NY to 8 Higgins Court, Brick, New Jersey 08724; e-mail is <jollyjoe1@msn.com>. If any of his old buddies are out there, he would be very happy to hear from you.

Does the media want my stories and photos?

My name is Fred E. Proft, and I served with Battery B of the 1st F.A. Obsn Bn (First Field Artillery Observation Battalion) in the Tenth Corp section of Korea from July ‘51 to April ‘52. I was assigned to the Flash Platoon and manned OP’s (Observation Posts) on Bloody and Heartbreak Ridges and the Punch Bowl area. I was discharged August 30, 1952, having attained the rank of Sergeant First Class.

At the urging of my wife and children I have written about some of my experiences while serving with this unit in Korea. With the 50th Anniversary of the start of the Korean War, I thought maybe the media might want to use some of these narratives in commemoration of “The Forgotten War”. In many instances I have photos to go along with the accounts.

The media has my permission and is welcome to use any or all of these write-ups. The only request I have is that my name and city be noted so that any of my Flash Platoon personnel who may read it can contact me. I’d like to have a reunion with this great bunch of guys. Fred E. A story of remembering

I was a member of Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 31st Inf. Regt. and the 7th Inf. Div. I was in Korea from March to the middle of December of 1952. The 3rd Battalion made the initial assault in Triangle Hill near Kumhwa in mid-October 1952.

Not long after I arrived back home in St. Paul, Minnesota, in January of 1953, the woman who lived next door to our family gave me a clipping from one of the St. Paul newspapers. This woman and her family lived next door to our family for over 50 years. I do not know at this time if the newspaper was the morning Pioneer Press or the afternoon Dispatch or what the date of publication was. A copy of this clipping is attached.

I do not know what unit Sergeant Whitaker belonged to. After the initial assault on Triangle Hill, our battalion and maybe even the whole regiment was moved westward to the vicinity of White Horse Hill. Sergeant Whitaker died on Triangle Hill on my 23rd birthday. I had spent most of the summer looking point blank at that hill. I knew every wrinkle in the hill that could be seen from my location on the line. Sent in by John Rutford, 2750 N. Dale St. #43 Roseville MN 55113. Tel: 651-481-1009, E-mail <jrutford@cs.com>.

Amphibious Forces were there

I didn’t get on board LST 914 until about the second week of December 1950 in Sasebo Japan. I was a seaman in the Gunnery Division. We departed Sasebo and went to the evacuation area at Hung-Nam. On our way there we ran into a storm and the heavy seas caused several cracks to appear in the main upper deck. We picked up our first load of engineering equipment and took them to Pusan.

A funny thing happened on our way to the beach. We had been in Hung-Nam harbor all day, along with many other ships, but we... were ordered to approach the beach under “darkened ship” conditions. Why? I don’t know. The enemy knew we were there. When GQ sounded we went to our battle stations and this is what we saw. A ship fitter was arc welding the cracks on the upper deck. The bow doors were open and the ramp was down and the welder’s helper was in the tank deck with a floodlight shining upward to illuminate the cracks for the welder to find. Directly in front of us was the hospital Ship Repose with all of it’s lights ablaze. We had to go around her. All of our running lights were also on. When we beached we were told that we would be off the beach in a couple of hours. We were there all night. After loading we took our load to Pusan.

We returned to Hung-Nam and loaded 10 Patton tanks, their crews and officers and departed Hung-ham on the 24th of December and headed for Pusan. We had a real happy load of tankers. The next day was Christmas and all hands on board got a wonderful Navy Christmas dinner. After dinner I was relaxing on my bunk when I was called to report to the Bridge. The Gunnery Officer was the OD and I was the movie operator, OD: “The major here, tells me that his men have not seen any movies for about 4 months. Would you be willing to show some movies this afternoon?” Now, how do I answer that question? The OD is my gun boss, and it’s Christmas Day. Of course I answered in the affirmative. We had 10 movies on board and before I was through, I showed all of them!!

I have a question for those tank crews. Realizing that this all happened 51 years ago, are there any of those tankers that were on LST 914 on Christmas Day 1950 that enjoyed our Navy hospitality of a great dinner and an afternoon of movies. The ages of these men would be in their 70’s or 80’s. My service on LST 914 ended in April, 1951 when I was transferred to San Diego to re-commission the U.S.S. Chauncey DD 667. I was only on LST 914 for about 4 months.

If you remember any of this, I would like to hear from you. I’m 73 now and my memory is still in pretty good condition. Contact James R. Doty, 1962 Wineberry Path, Reading, CA 96003-9076. Tel: 530-221-0120

Glenn Grove of Fostoria, Ohio who served in the 3rd Div. 147th Regt, 2nd Battalion, Easy Company has received his Purple Heart for wounds he received in June 1953 while climbing a hill in Korea. Joel Davis upon hearing that Glenn never received his medal gave him the papers and helped him to receive a most honored medal for injuries received in the line of duty. Rogue Valley Chapter # 257 Of Oregon

We here in the wonderful Rogue Valley of Oregon are now with a Korean War Veterans Association Charter. This was due to the dream of one man and the efforts of two others. They formed an organizing committee in July 2001 with an objective to form a chapter by January 2002. They met that objective!

On January 19th 2002 the Rogue Valley Chapter # 257 with twenty six qualified members had completed all the requirements of National Petition and installed the Chapter Officers. Department of Oregon 2001 President; Margo Coleman swore in the officers for 2002 President Roy Poppleton and State Secretary Walt Crews bore witness to the ceremony. The Chapter elected officers are Herbert Robb, President, Allen Forrette 1st VP and Don Elliott 2nd VP. Bob Wash, Secretary and Sam McCauley Treasurer/Quartermaster.

The City of Medford Oregon presented a Proclamation to the Korean War Veterans and commended the goals and objectives of the Rogue Valley Chapter # 257. The Mayor and City Council and staff rose and saluted those veterans who were in attendance. (Thank you Herbert Robb for photo and letter. KWVA National welcomes your new chapter and its members. The Graybeards will print your future submittals in honor of your veterans.)

Manasota Chapter #199 of Florida

The Manatee County Veterans Council on Nov. 8, 2001, named Bill Field as Manatee County Veteran of the Year. The announcement was made by Larry Bustle, Chairman of the Veterans Council. Bustle said all area veterans organizations were invited to submit nominations for the competition. The chairman’s screening committee selected five names from a field of ten. The four other finalists were: Larry Bustle (UAF, Col. Ret); Larry Burnette (USA, Col., Ret.); Robert Goulding, USMC; Warren Sweetman, USA.

According to Bustle, Field’s many accomplishments include his selection by the Veterans Council to spearhead the initiative that opened the Manatee County School District to veterans and their military contributions. The Veterans Educate Today’s Students (VETS) act inspired by Congressional and state legislation, recognized the importance of veterans.

Bill Field, Manatee County’s Veteran of the Year, during a locale TV interview following the announcement of his selection.

Field is a charter member of the newly-formed KWVA Manasota Chapter 199. He was subsequently elected chapter president. His devotion to the chapter recently resulted in the chapter’s first successful fund raising campaign.

A charter member of the Korean War Commemorative Committee, Field orchestrated several significant promotions in 2000 designed to unite the county’s Korean War veterans and their families. First, an overflow gathering of 673 veterans and their families attended an awards ceremony at Kirby Stewart American Legion Post 24 in June which commemorated the North Korean invasion of the Republic of South Korea.

Secondly, added Bustle, veterans and their families on July 27 were remembered at Veterans Monument Park during a candle-light service commemorating the 1953 cease-fire. A compelling and poignant address was delivered by Field. Finally, in March, a KWVA honor guard, founded by Field, was highlighted during a medallion presentation at McKechnie Field before 5800 fans at a Pittsburgh Pirates’ Spring training game. All of these activities, and more, provided county-wide recognition of the service and sacrifice of Korean War veterans.

Bill Field served honorably in the U. S. Army. During the bitterest of combat in Korea prior to the Panmunjom cease-fire talks, Bill served with the 1st Cavalry Division. Among his many medals and awards are the Combat Infantryman’s Badge, Purple Heart, the Korean War Service Medal with three battle stars and the United Nations Medal. He retired from the army with honors in 1975 as a Sergeant Major.

(Thank you for the photos and letter. Great chapter events for all. KWVA salutes you Bill Field.)

Korean War Veterans get Anniversary Coin

Honored by VFW Local VFW Post #5059. Honored were members of the Chapter of Korean War Veterans Post #203, Turlock, CA. A Dinner held on Nov. 10th at the VFW Hall. Emotions ran high that evening, as memories of “The Forgotten War” were re-kindled. Approx 200 guests turned out for the occasion at which the Korean Veterans were honored and presented with the 50th Anniversary Commemorative Coin representing the Korean Conflict. The Korean Veterans were introduced individually and each gave a brief account of their actions during the Korean War. VFW Commander Virgil Vaughn made the presentations. It was the first event of this nature to take place locally.

Nature Coast Chapter #174 of Florida

Two neighbors, Lou Schneider and Ed Valetic, both members of KWVA Nature Coast Chapter 174, encouraged me to submit the enclosed article and photographs for possible publication in The Graybeards. I am pleased to do so.

The story of Eddie Koh, formerly known as Choon Kyung Koh and a high school student in Seoul when North Korea invaded the South, has never been told. His contributions during the Korean War are worthy of publication by themselves. When combined with what he has been doing as a Korean-American businessman to honor American veterans of “the Forgotten War” makes his story even more compelling.

I’m certain many KWVA members knew Koh during the war. All KWVA members will be proud to read of what he has been doing since 1993 to make sure they know the ROK government and its citizens appreciate their sacrifices in saving South Korea from communism. Koh is determined that the Korean War and the American GIs who fought in it are “Forgotten No More.”

On the 51st Anniversary of the Korean War

Former Spy, Now Businessman, Remembers

By Larry Weier

Just five years after harsh colonial rule of Korea by Japan ceased with its surrender to General Douglas MacArthur, ending World War II, young Choon Kyung Koh’s world was turned upside down and his life was forever changed. At war’s end, negotiations had given control of the northern half of his country to the Soviets, while the US received control of the southern half.

But communist North Korea wanted it all, and its troops invaded South Korea on June 25, 1950, to take it. Seoul, the South’s capital, was captured on June 28. Just a day earlier, the United Nations called for a cease-fire and President Harry Truman ordered U.S. troops into Korea. The North’s 135,000 troops greatly outnumbered President Syngman Rhee’s Republic of Korea (ROK) 90,000 troops as civilians fled from the invaders and headed far south, where a defensive perimeter was being established at Pusan. American GIs, together with ROK troops, fought defensively to slow the advancing enemy while the perimeter was being set up.

Young Koh, who now goes by the name Eddie Koh and owns Quail Hollow Golf & Country Club in Wesley Chapel, was only 15 and in high school. Although he was born in Chor Won in North Korea, about 200 miles north of Seoul, his family had moved to Seoul because of growing unrest in North Korea. Koh's father was a founding minister of the Seventh Day Adventists Church in Korea and sensed increasing antagonism toward his activities in Chor Won.

A troupe of Korean folk dancers clad in traditional costumes sang, danced and played their instruments for 250 veterans and guests.

Too young to join the military but fluent in English, Koh joined the School Volunteer Army (SVA). Its members wore no uniform and carried no weapons. Their mission was two-fold. They were to infiltrate the North and convey to its citizens that UN Forces were in Korea to help them. They were also to gather military intelligence for UN Forces headed by MacArthur, named Commander of Unified UN Forces on July 8. Koh also served as an interpreter.

He fulfilled a key role in the famous amphibious landing by MacArthur’s troops at Inchon on Korea’s west coast, southwest of Seoul. With North Korean troops pushing aggressively south to surround ROK, US and UN forces at Pusan, MacArthur’s strategy was to make a surprise landing at Inchon, advance east and cut the supply lines for North Korean troops driving toward Pusan. They could then be isolated and destroyed.

Landing at Inchon would be very difficult and exacting, though. Low and high tides can vary by 23-35 feet. If troops landed at low tide, they would be on mud flats, facing a scale of a sheer, 30-foot seawall. However, if they landed at high tide, they would be nearly even with the top of the seawall, needing only short ladders to climb ashore from their landing craft.

Koh was part of a small reconnaissance team reporting to US Navy Lt. Eugene Clark, whose mission was to signal MacArthur’s forces offshore about the tide. To do this, the group went ashore at Palmi Do, a small island in the approach to Inchon where a damaged lighthouse beacon was located. Koh and the rest of Clark’s team repaired the beacon and, at 12:01 AM, Sept. 15, they lit it. The landing at Inchon, code-named “Operation Chromite,” began with that lighting. First Division Marines were first to go over the seawall from Navy landing craft at 5:30PM that day.

Later, in October, Koh was the first to discover that Chinese Communist Forces (CCF) had crossed the Yalu River border into North Korea to join the fight against UN troops. Koh had infiltrated North Korea near the Chosin Reservoir when he saw soldiers in different uniforms speaking a language other than Korean. He recognized it as Chinese and sent word of CCF intervention back through intelligence channels. UN Headquarters staff did not believe him at first but his report proved to be accurate.

Some 300,000 CCF troops subsequently ambushed elements of the Seventh Army and First Marine Divisions from mountains overlooking the area. The Gls had to fight their way back south 45 miles in bitter, numbing cold and deep snow to the east coast port of Hungnam, where they were evacuated by some of the same landing craft, including Henry’s, that had brought them ashore at Inchon. They suffered heavy casualties — including more than 8,000 killed — by CCF troops holding the high ground above their route. Survivors are reverently referred to as “the Chosin Few.”

Koh is overwhelmed by the courage and humanity of the Americans carrying out the evacuation. “Not only did they evacuate US troops,” he said, “but, at great risk to their own lives, they also evacuated 90,000 North Korean civilians escaping communism, all while under fire from the Chinese.”

American pilots showed the same kind of principles, according to Koh. “They refused to attack temples and shrines and similar buildings, even though they knew enemy troops hid there during raids. Americans hon-

“A BRIEF ACCOUNT OF THE KOREAN WAR”

“The most lucid, brief account of the Korean War Available”
Professor Richard Thornton, George Washington University

“Great! I wish I had written it. I could put my name on it.”
*Pulitzer Prize winner, John Toland. Author of In Mortal Combat 1950-1953

“This booklet is being used in High Schools, Colleges, and Military History Museums. One local KWA Chapter has distributed 650 copies in schools and among ROTC cadets”
1993 to purchase Quail Hollow Golf & Country Club on Old Pasco Road in Wesley Chapel. They made the purchase and today, in addition to managing the operation together, also live on the premises. His brother, Moon Kyung Koh, a retired minister, lives nearby.

It was while sitting and chatting with Korean War veterans at the club one day in 1996 that Koh decided he and his wife would host an annual outing honoring US veterans of the Korean War. Its purpose would be to show their personal appreciation, as well as that of all South Koreans, for the sacrifices that American troops made in rescuing their country and saving its people from communism. All veterans who served in Korea between June 25, 1950, and July 27, 1953, would be welcome to attend, along with their spouses.

Golf, food — including a buffet dinner — beer and soft drinks are “on the house,” courtesy of the Kohs. The event has grown each year. This year’s outing, the sixth, was held Monday, Aug. 13, and drew 250 Korean veterans and guests. In addition to the free golf, food and refreshments, Korean folk dancers in colorful, traditional costumes entertained them. Ann Poonsakern, a young Korean graduate of USF holding the title of “Miss Tampa,” sang the US national anthem.

Kimi J. Springsteen, representing the area’s Asian-American community, choked up as she recalled the night of North Korea’s invasion and thanked the veterans for coming to her country’s rescue. “You will never, never be forgotten and will be honored for generations to come,” she told them.

American and Republic of Korea flags were displayed on each table and around the clubhouse and golf course. Banners reading “FREEDOM IS NOT FREE” and “FORGOTTEN NO MORE” hung over the practice green. A special table is set each year in honor of Prisoners of War and those Missing in Action from all wars. One chair tilted against the table is symbolic “reserved for one who hasn’t returned.”

Koh explained that veterans don’t often share with their families what they went through in combat. He said that the annual outings reveal veterans’ experiences that even spouses learn of for the first time. Koh feels that everyone — spouses, children and grandchildren — should know of the sacrifices they’ve made and of the hardships they’ve endured.

Koh can’t forget the loss of two million lives of his compatriots, South and North. Asked whether the two Koreas would ever reunite into a single country, Koh replied that “it will take a big forgiveness.” Personally, because of his own experiences, he “can’t forgive” the North Korean government. “Not really. Not under any conditions. However, the younger generations should work toward reunification for the future of both countries,” he said.

Although South Korea’s President Kim Dae Jung received the Nobel Peace Prize for opening the door to reunification talks with North Korea and has another year-and-a-half in office, Koh feels that “North Korea is not ready to unite.” He is distrustful of the North, pointing out that “it is taking advantage of the US to get aid and other benefits.” Food and aid money, he believes, are siphoned off to support the military. “Civilians are very poor and children are starving,” he said.

“Before the US makes any real effort to reunite the country,” he said, “North Korea must first be made to account for the more than 8,000 US troops still listed as Missing in Action.” American families have a right to know where their sons are and to bring them back home, whether dead or alive.”

On the positive side, he thinks that China will not again actively participate in armed aggression against South Korea by the North. “It has nothing to gain.” He believes China’s emergence in the world economy and its hosting of the 2008 Olympics in Beijing will keep it out of such an entanglement.

(Thank you Larry Weier for photos and letter. I normally would consider this a story and not print in Chapter Affairs. I made the exception this time because it ties in with your chapter and it is a great story about a true hero and now a great American. I do wish to correct some history.

It was the 7 Inf. Div, not 7th Army at the Chosin and we also must remember the 3rd Inf. Div. had the rear guard along with the 92nd Artillery Bn. to help those UN Armies and civilians to escape. Also the 8th Army (those not named above) came under attack during this period on the Central and Western MLR. Maybe the 7th Army you speak of were ROK’s but I do know the other units including ROK Units also bore the brunt of the 300,000 Chinese invaders and suffered many casualties. How do I know, well just my own 2nd Inf. Div. had over 5,000 casualties during this same period and I was in that division in 1950-51.

I also lost my twin brother on Dec 1, 1950, MIA/POW who was in my unit in the 2nd I.D. remains not returned, and still in North Korea. Our readers tend to get upset when units are omitted and I did not try to name all units in order to make sure I am not omitting all our brave heroes. We were all U.N. Forces.)

Lake County Chapter #169

Martin “Jackie” Gleason, President, Lake County Chapter #169, Korean War Veterans Association announced the appointment of Rev. Charles E. Marcelle as the Chapter’s Chaplain. The Rev. Marcelle was born in Orlando but raised in New York City’s Bedford Stuyvesant Section, Brooklyn. In his youth he was an amateur boxer and a Golden Gloves contender.

While serving as a Sergeant with the 3rd Infantry Division in Korea he promised God he would dedicate his life to Him if He allowed him to return home “safe and sound.” After his discharge from service he enrolled in the Church of God Theological Seminary, Cleveland, TN. and on completion of his studies was ordained. He follows in the footsteps of his father Bishop Norbert S. Marcelle of the Church of God. A brother Dr. Norbert S. Marcelle Jr., is a Pastor in West Palm Beach and also a Korean War Veteran.

Chaplain Marcelle is married and the father of seven daughters (Linda a PhD and teacher of nursing; Debrah and Gwendolyn counselors for New York City Board of Education and candidates for PHDs; Karen a Registered Nurse; Esther owner/operator of Day Care Nursery; Edith Carolyn a sales representative; Renee a medical secretary), he also has 18 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

At present Pastor Marcelle is holding his church services at the Hampton Inn, Mt. Dora while plans are being made to construct a church in the Mt. Dora area.

In 1985 he was cited in Who’s Who in Religion.
During the desperate early days of the Korean War, 4 August, 1950 was to be the “day of decision” at 5th Air Force Headquarters. The holding actions of the 8th Army and Marines had failed to sufficiently slow Red troop advances and, despite the heavy pounding by our fighter planes on all three fronts circling Taegu, and even a futile mass saturation raid by B-29s near Waegwan, we could not keep the enemy from crossing the Naktong River. By mid-afternoon the Reds had pushed to within 12 short miles of our Taegu airstrip, and would be within artillery range of our parked Mustangs within just a few hours.

General Walker’s Army staff had made plans to “hold to the end” along the Naktong River but, unfortunately, had neglected to inform 5th Air Force General Partridge’s air staff until August 3rd; so the Air Force units had been forced to make their own plans to preserve our aerial fighting capability.

We were to evacuate most of our people and equipment to Ashiya, Japan, leaving only Lieutenant Harry Dugan’s newly-formed 6149th Air Base Unit to remain at Taegu to rearm and refuel the ships after their long missions out of Japan. So, on August 5th I packed my meager belongings and arranged for Sergeant Thornton, our Intelligence clerk, to pack all of our Squadron Intelligence Office supplies, except those which would be needed for briefing the early morning missions on August 6th. Our tents were struck and packed, then moved to the flight line for loading aboard the scores of C-47s, C-54s and C-119s which started arriving at dusk.

Everyone worked on the loading … flight crews, cooks, Colonels and Korean guards. By midnight the work detail was sufficiently organized that those of us who were slated to fly the early morning missions could spread out under the stars and try to get some sleep.

Sleep didn’t come easily that night. We could hear the “thuh-runk, thuh-runk” of exploding artillery shells just a few miles to the north, and wondered if the base might be over-run during the night. Weariness finally overcame apprehension and I slept until wakened a short time later by the clear light of dawn.

Our plans for August 6th hinged around the night’s movement by the Red troops: those on the west front had not been able to move far from their Naktong River beachhead during the night, and those on the north had been slowed somewhat by our defending Army forces.

We planned to fly all of our fighters out early that morning, no matter what their condition. Those with mechanical problems would head directly for Ashiya, Japan … across the wide neck between the Sea of Japan and the Korean Straits … the pilots could decide along the way if they thought the airplane could make it across safely. If they had any doubts, they could land on the dirt strip at Pusan, rather than chance the thirty minute flight across the open water.

Those of us with operational ships would continue to fly as many missions as possible against the nearby attacking troops, but would keep enough fuel on board to reach Ashiya in case our strip at Taegu was attacked before we could get back. If Taegu was still holding when we completed our first missions, we would land to rearm and refuel to fly a second mission and, if it continued to hold, we would fly a third or a fourth mission, then fly over to Ashiya to spend the night in safety.

The Army troops held their ground on all three fronts on the 6th, and after my late afternoon mission we still owned the Taegu real estate … but it was getting too close to dusk for me to try for another, so I buzzed the base, and set course south-east toward Japan. I just hoped we would still own the property on the following morning ….!

The flight from Taegu to Ashiya took just one hour, of which the last twenty or so minutes were over water, in rapidly-increasing darkness. For the first time that I could recall, my engine displayed none of it’s typical “over-water roughness”; maybe that occurred only when outbound across long stretches of ocean, but not when coming homeward-bound. In fact, the flight from Pusan to Ashiya was the most relaxing return from a combat mission that I’d had in weeks; for a welcome change, I was able to stretch out my legs and slump comfortably in the cockpit without having to worry about the possibility of ground fire or an attack by enemy aircraft. It was downright pleasant! I began to think that the idea of evacuating was not such a bad idea after all.

Upon landing and parking my dusty, oil streaked F-51 on Ashiya’s clean, wide concrete parking ramp, close by our newly-established Operations and Intelligence offices, I found that Sergeant Thornton had made it across in good order; he flew over sitting atop our packing crates in the rear of a heavily-loaded C-47 and had our Intelligence section... open and operating long before I arrived. He had already made arrangements with the clerks in the 67th Fighter Squadron to share the briefing and debriefing chores, and had our telephone communications set up.

I borrowed a jeep long enough to move my personal gear and flight equipment to a BOQ room, where the sight of clean sheets and hot showers erased any feeling of weariness I’d felt after the long, tedious day in the air. At the moment it seemed incongruous that just two hours earlier I’d been violently attacking the North Koreans, who were pressing within twelve to fifteen miles of my ‘home’ at Taegu, and wondering if I’d have to finish the mission by walking out to Pusan.

Instead, safe at Ashiya, I had a nice clean room, with maid service, white sheets, hot showers, a plush Officer’s Club ... with gourmet meals in the dim, candle-lit dining room. The stark contrast to our primitive existence of the past month was almost too much to comprehend.

“Now this,” I thought, “is the proper way for gentlemen pilots to fight a war...!”

On August 7th I flew one two-hour mission, stood-down on the 8th to do paperwork, then, on the 9th flew two. The first was from Ashiya to Andong, in the north-central sector, where a line of tanks had been found. That mission lasted two-hours and fifty minutes, with a landing at the Taegu north-central sector, where a line of tanks had been found. That mission lasted two-hours and fifty minutes, with a landing at the Taegu front.

By the time the noose had tightened around Taegu, there were actually fewer Red supplies being intercepted, for a couple of reasons:

Secondly, the Reds were ‘holing-up’ during daylight hours, and making their long moves at night, when our fighter planes were on the ground. It took them longer, but the supplies were still reaching the front.

Night ground attack missions in single-engine, single-place fighters like the F-51 Mustang were out of the question ... it was too dangerous, especially in the mountainous terrain of Korea,...

Something had to be done to stop the Red’s night-time traffic movements but what?

Night ground attack missions in single-engine, single-place fighters like the F-51 Mustang were out of the question ... it was too dangerous, especially in the mountainous terrain of Korea, and wouldn’t be a ‘snowball’s chance in hell’ of seeing and hitting a target on the ground in the dark.

“But what if...” said some high-ranking staff officer in 5th Air Force Headquarters, who obviously had never flown the F-51 at night, and certainly not at low altitude in the mountains.

“What if we just lobbed a few bombs and rockets around known highway routes ...it might just slow them down, because they’d have to drive with their headlights off to keep from being seen by the aircraft... “

That began to make a little more sense; not much, just a little.

So Jerry Mau had received a telephone call from 5th AF headquarters that night of August 10th, 1950, telling him to send two Mustangs over the Naktong River near Waegwan, to see if they couldn’t slow the enemy’s supplies moving toward the Taegu front.

The more we talked about it, there in the dim-lit lounge at the Ashiya Officer’s Club, and considered the dangers and possibilities of such a mission, the more we began to think the idea might have a bit of merit... “ridiculous, but possible”.

Jerry said he would fly lead position if I would go along as his wing man ...he had neither the time nor the ambition to try to justify the crazy mission all over again to someone else. I told him that I might just as well go with him ... who else would be stupid enough to volunteer?!

We called the armament and maintenance shops on the line, telling them to load two of our best-instrumented airplanes with a mix of Napalm and 500 pound GP bombs, six rockets and to load the machine guns with lots of tracer rounds... and to have them ready for a midnight take-off.

It was useless for either Jerry or for me to try to get any sleep before we had to take-off. We were both too keyed up, thinking about flying around over the battle lines in the dark, wondering how bright our exhaust stacks would glow, and give away our position to enemy gunners.

We changed to our flight suits, got a large thermos of coffee and went down to the flight line to study the terrain maps of the area until it was time to depart.

We both knew the areas around Waegwan, H’amchang and Taegu ‘like the palm of our hands’... in the daytime. We knew the outline of this hill and that one, ‘just where the river bends by the mountain, the railroad and tunnel locations ...all of it familiar in broad daylight. But at night, when we would not be able to see the hills or the rivers or the tunnels, we would have to relate their positions and altitudes to the distances and directions from some known location that we could identify in the dark.

The mountains in the area were not exceptionally high, ranging from 3500 feet in the area south of Taegu, less than 3000 feet to the north, and going up to 4500 and 5300 feet about twenty-five miles west of Taegu. The elevations were just high enough to be a nuisance; their danger came not from their height, but from their ruggedness, and from the deep canyons thru which the roads and railroads wound their way.

At 2300 hours we checked our airplanes carefully to make sure that we had operable cockpit and navigation lights; bombs and rockets were armed, and machine guns were charged and ready. We made it a special point to check the brightness control on the gunsight light reticules and, when they were turned all the way down to their dimmest level, thought that they would be dim enough so as not to blind us in the dark.

At midnight we were rolling down the runway into the dark, toward the Sea of Japan in close formation; Jerry had his wing navigation lights on ‘dim’, and I tugged in very close under his wing to make sure that I didn’t lose my position and have to switch abruptly to flying ‘on instruments’ if I were to slide out of formation.

All went well as we flew out over the sea into the clear, moonless night. As we climbed above the haze and smoke layers, more and more stars became visible and, after passing through 5000 feet, I relaxed a bit and moved out to a more comfortable formation spacing to the side ... all the while keeping my eyes firmly riveted on Jerry’s navigation lights ... a dim white light atop his rudder, and a small green light on the tip of his right wing. From my position on the right, I could not see the small red light on his left wing, but I knew it was there and working. His exhaust stacks on the nose glowed deep red from the bright blue flame of the exhaust gasses. There would be no need for using lights to rejoin formation ... the exhaust stacks would provide all the visibility we would need ... maybe too much.

We leveled off at nine thousand feet and, as we did, reduced our power to cruise settings; I allowed my eyes to wander down to the black sea below. As I did, I got a bad case of vertigo ...dizziness, and I couldn’t tell whether I was flying rightside up or upside down. The situation was compounded by the fact that the sea was covered with fishing boats, each having a single mast light.

The pattern of lights below was identical to the pattern of stars above ... what an eerie sensation! I quickly glanced at my artificial horizon, altimeter and airspeed instruments, to reassure myself that we were right-side up, then focused again on Mau’s lights and exhaust flame. I fought the visual sensations until we crossed landfall near Pusan, and the light patterns below changed abruptly back to black darkness, interspersed with necklaces of lights winding northwestward.

Vertigo is a common occurrence when flying close formation at night, so I wasn’t concerned that it would go away; knew that I could always revert to the truth shown by my flight instruments ... as long as I would believe them.

Fifty miles southwest of Taegu we lost any concerns we might have had about the accuracy of our navigation for finding the front lines. As we looked out ahead into the darkness, we could see an almost solid horseshoe ring of fire ... blazing villages, which extended for miles in either direction, centered along the banks of the Nakdong River. The battle front was much more clearly defined for a night attack than it was during the smoke and confusion of daytime battles.

By following the river, keeping just a few miles to the east ... over friendly territory, we could see the periodic strings of lights which marked the North Korean’s supply convoys rushing to the battlefronts just beyond the ridge of hills immediately north of Taegu’s beleaguered airstrip.

We knew, of course, that the strings of lights would disappear just as soon as they heard us in the vicinity, so we had to try to relate the location of the lights to the burning villages on the ground ... and to try to remember approximately how far they were from the known mountain peaks in the area.

The perimeter of burning villages seemed to form a giant, tilted letter “C”, with the open portion facing toward Pusan. From our ten-thousand foot altitude over Taegu we could trace the battle lines all the way from the Sea of Japan, just north of Pohang and Kigye, south of Uisong, west to Sonsan, then, following the Nakdong River, southwest to Kumchon, Waegwan, Songiu, Songjong-dong, Tokson-dong, Ghogje, Sinban-ni, then toward the southeast to Shinum-ni and almost to the southern port of Masan. The entire perimeter of the war was lit up like a Broadway theater marquee ... an eerily beautiful sight!

Awe-inspiring as it was from our vantage point, we had work to do. We could clearly see the heavy concentration of smoke and haze below us, rising to seven or eight thousand feet, where it leveled under an inversion layer of warmer air above. Although we were flying in clear air above the smoke layer at the time, admiring the strange, dramatic beauty of the burning countryside, we knew that our visibility would be drastically reduced as soon as we dropped down into the smoke and haze below the inversion layer ... so much so, that we would have to rely on our flight instruments to control the ing my machine guns from 5000 feet.

and, since he was well clear, I started firing my problem of trying to right the airplane and get the hell out of there without losing control and spinning in.

The steep pull up ... about 5 Gs, caused me to ‘grey out’ as the blood left my head from the force of gravity, compounding my system of trying to right the airplane and get the hell out of there without losing control and spinning in.

Diving through fifty-five hundred feet, on track, I again sprayed the area with necklaces of bright tracers from my six machine guns, then, thinking I might avoid some of the vision-shattering brilliance of all six rockets firing at once, I reached down by my left knee to move the rocket selector switch from “Salvo” to “Ripple”. That way, I thought, instead of firing all six rockets at one time when I pressed the trigger, they’d ripple off one time in quick order ... firing first from one wing, then the other, with a fraction of a second’s delay between, until all six were gone. That was a big mistake!!

I triggered off the first one at about 4500 feet, then had to follow that dammed, intensely bright trail of sparks for what seemed like an eternity, until the sixth and last rocket finally roared off into the dark.

Blinded by the sparks, while diving toward the ground at more than 400 miles per hour, I closed my eyes momentarily to protect them from the vision-shattering flash, until I felt the last rocket leave with a deep “waaaaaawh”. After keeping my eyes tightly closed for as long as my nerves would allow, I had to open them because I knew that I must be diving into the hillside. I wasn’t, but I was still deep in the trail of sparks and, trying to focus my eyes on my dimly-lit flight instru-tments as I banked steeply to the left and hauled back on the control stick to get out of their intense brilliance as quickly as possible. The steep pull up ... about 5 Gs, caused me to ‘grey out’ as the blood left my head from the force of gravity, compounding my problem of trying to right

the airplane and get the hell out of there without losing control and spinning in.

Although I could not yet make out my instruments, because my eyes were still stunned by the bright after-image of the rocket sparks,

I sensed that I was still climbing by the feel of the controls and the sound of the engine ... my speed was dropping off rap-didly, and the response to the control pressure was changing from the stiff sensations of 400 mph, to what I thought must be a near-stall condition. I couldn’t know if I was in a banked attitude and ready to spin-out with a stall, or if my wings were near level.

A sense of frantic desperation welled up inside me ... blinded, sitting in the cockpit of a nearly out-of-control fighter plane in the smoky blackness over enemy territory in mountainous Korea ... my life seemed to suddenly hang on the slender thread of my slowly-returning night vision. I still could not make out the life-saving messages my flight instruments were trying to signal me, even though I had turned the cockpit light rheostats up to their full brightness. I searched outside the cockpit for some clue, looking first out ahead, then quickly sweeping back over my left shoulder.

Finally, out of the corner of my eye, I could barely make out the hazy pattern of flame on the ground ... and recognized that I was in a steep climb with the wings almost level. I would surely stall out if I didn’t get my nose down in a hurry. I jerked the stick quickly to the left, and kicked hard left rudder, rolling into a steep bank. The nose fell off, just as the airplane stalled and, as it dropped, I eased the stick to the right to level the wings once more. By that time I was able to make out the line of fires on the ground once again, and gently pulled the nose up as the airplane picked up flying speed. I continued along the line of fires until I could make out my instruments, then turned toward Taegu to rejoin Mau and head for home.

After one circle of Taegu, Mau blinked his navigation lights a couple of times and I was able to slowly ease up onto his wing as we headed southeast toward Pusan, and across the sea to Ashiya. My eyes gradually adapted to the darkness once again, and the trip home was uneventful at ten thousand feet. We could see the glow of Ashiya’s city lights through the clouds from over the Island of Tsushima, seventy miles out ... a very welcome sight.

Letting down at a leisurely rate, we timed our descent to where we thought we could intercept the Ground Control Approach (GCA) radar final approach path at about 2000 feet, then make a smooth transition to a straight-in final approach track through the low clouds to the runway. Although we could see the glow of the lights thru the fog-like haze, we weren’t yet able to pinpoint the location of the airdrop.

With our typical luck, when we radioed for landing information, the control tower informed us that the GCA unit was shut down for maintenance between the hours of 0100 and 0400 each morning; we’d have to find our way home by ourselves, or divert the forty miles south to Itazuke, where there was an operational GCA unit. We chose to chance it through the thin overcast scud at Ashiya.

I tucked close onto Mau’s right wing once more, as he flew to the Ashiya low frequency radio beacon at 2000 feet, then turned outbound to set up a teardrop return pattern, descending over the sea to turn back inbound ... to what we hoped would be a precise final approach to the runway, which was situated very close to the beach.

However, our signals became crossed when Jerry lowered his landing gear while in the scud ... where I didn’t see it, and I shot past him with my extra speed. I promptly lost sight of him in the clouds, and had to immediately go on my own instruments to keep my ship right side up as I recovered my bearings. Jerry continued his turn from base leg to final approach and went on in for an uneventful landing.

Meanwhile, I leveled off momentarily, then swung around in a wide 360 degree turn to the right, rolling out when my radio compass needle (ADF) showed I was heading in toward the strip on the proper run way heading. Dropping landing gear and flaps, I established a steady 300 ft per minute rate of descent, and planned to hold it until I either broke out of the clouds, or reached a minimum altitude of 200 feet. I was much relieved to break out of the scud at about 250 feet, giving me enough room to make a slight visual correction to line up with the runway and set the Mustang down for a smooth, three-point landing finally, at 2:50 AM ... after a very, very long, very tiring day of war.

At the mission debriefing we discussed the results of our night combat mission in great detail, trying to evaluate whether our opponents could be effective, or even feasible.

Our honest opinion was: “Not only ‘NO,’ but ‘HELL NO!’”

Aside from the initial surprise to the enemies, we were sure they must have realized we could not aim at specific targets in the dark, and they would soon proceed along their usual way.

The danger to the fighter pilots, flying at low altitude in the mountainous terrain was too great for the potential gains; it was not worth the risk involved.

It was interesting to note, many years later, when reading Futrell’s official, published “History of the United States Air Force in Korea”, that an account of our August 10, 1950 night attack on Songju, and our negative opinions of its value, were described in extended detail.

* In mid-1952, after both had returned to the United States, Major Mau and Captain Biteman were awarded Distinguished Flying Cross medals for their 10 August 1950, F-51 Mustang night attack against North Korean Communist ground forces in the Songju area of South Korea.

the woman’s reason for making the exhausting climb to our firing position. I assumed she was grateful that we were there to protect her and wanted to thank us. One thing disturbed me: she was dressed in layers of white clothing that was sure to attract the attention of the enemy troops advancing toward us. And I was concerned about her safety.

Just after WWII a member of our platoon had served in Korea and spoke enough of the language to communicate with the people. I told him to give her whatever she wanted quickly and get her off the hill. Explain to her that we could come under enemy fire at any moment; also the muzzle blast from our 90-mm tank cannon could seriously injure her. He spoke with her for several minutes but she kept sidestepping him and moving closer to me. I assumed she wanted to thank me in person. Still, the soldier was blocking her way. Finally, I walked over to them. She was standing with her hands folded in front of her; her head was bowed respectfully. She mumbled very quietly, “Kara.” I supposed that meant “Thank you” in Korean. I turned and began to walk away. She screamed, “Kara, Kara, Kara.” I asked the soldier what she was saying. He replied “Kara” means “Get to hell out of here.” He explained that we were in her apple orchard and she demanded that we leave. The old lady was looking at me with hate in her eyes.

By then, some of the tank commanders had checked the concealment of their tanks from a distance and decided to break off some more tree limbs and hang them over the tank guns. The old woman became enraged. Now that she was on level ground and fairly close to us, she rushed toward the tanks screaming and swinging her cane, striking at the hands and arms of the men who were continuing to break small limbs off her apple trees. With a column of T-34 tanks heading toward us I did not need an hysterical, dried-up old woman, in billowing white clothing moving from tank to tank swinging her cane at my troops. I told the soldier to escort her off the hill and tell her we knew she was not supposed to be in this area, and if she returned we would inform the South Korean authorities. She did not resist. I doubt she had the strength. He left her squatting down by the roadside at the bottom of the hill.

Before long I heard in the distance the throaty cough of a battery of 155-mm howitzers and saw a column of dust and smoke begin to build about 2 miles north of us. Then F-80s came roaring over and made rocket runs into the same target area. I was confident that concentration of firepower would disperse the enemy task force. Now, somewhat relieved, I glanced occasionally toward the old woman. She was sitting quietly watching us with her back toward the enemy, unconcerned about who might win the battle we had prepared for so frantically. She knew her battle would be there in her apple orchard. She had fought courageously to save it. Now, I understood why she had avoided the evacuation. If there was to be a battle, her trees might not survive without her. And probably with no other source of income, she would be destitute without the trees. The poultry, the livestock, all the people were gone. She was a lone survivor living in a wasteland.

Within about 30 minutes Captain Dew’s jeep driver arrived and said the enemy task force had turned back and we were to depart immediately on our original mission of contacting the 1st Marine Division. No infantry troops were available to accompany us. Carefully, we maneuvered our tanks out of the orchard, without touching a tree. As we came off the hill the old woman struggled to her feet. When I approached I briefly caught sight of her tiny eyes shining past the layers of wrinkles and leathery skin. They were the eyes of a caged tiger, but she bowed respectfully toward each tank.

We found the North Koreans had not exploited the breakthrough on our left flank. No enemy soldiers had occupied any portion of the 17-mile stretch of road between the 2nd Division and the marines. During the first few hours of the attack Marshal Choe Yong Gun had committed most of his reserves to force an advance against the massed firepower opposing him. The marshal’s human-wave attacks had wasted his most aggressive leaders and depleted his manpower.

When we returned from the 1st Marine Division sector, our company headquarters was under direct tank fire. The enemy force had regrouped and was attacking cross-country to cut the road. A few days earlier, the company commander had moved his headquarters, maintenance, and kitchen personnel to a rocky, dry creek bed. Now, all his other tank platoons were with infantry regiments, fighting to beat back the North Koreans; he was pinned down at his own command post. High velocity shells slammed into the dry, stony creek bottom, sending slivers of steel and rock fragments whirling through the air in every direction.

Shot through the head, the body of 17-year-old Private Wright lay face up in the middle of the company street. Three or four other men, caught in the open, were trying to scoop out shallow protective trenches in the creek bed with their bare hands. We did not need an attack order. We moved out from the company area, then formed a skirmish line to sweep through the dry rice paddies to the west. When hit by the concentrated fire of machine guns and 90-mm tank cannon, the North Koreans fled. This was our kind of battle. Few of us would have wanted to go back to the apple orchard.

While fighting to save ourselves and the Pusan Perimeter, many came to fully appreciate a remark made by a Civil War soldier. During a major engagement, a rabbit found itself caught between the lines. The soldier saw the rabbit dodging bullets as it scurried through no-man’s land to the rear. He yelled, “Go it, cottontail! I’d run too if I had no more reputation to lose than you have.”

It is doubtful that the majority of our troops had heard about General Walker’s ‘stand or die’ order until they read the stories several years later. We did not stand because of a speech we never heard, made by a general we had never seen. Just as today, we held because we were the devoted soldiers of a proud people. Perhaps the most committed rival we faced that day was the shriveled old woman with a flash of hellfire in her eyes, fighting fearlessly to save some ancient apple trees on a sun-baked hill. She succeeded. On that same day, Marshal Choe Yong Gun had assigned himself the ambitious mission of destroying American combat forces in Korea. He failed so disastrously that his demoralized army never again became a threat to the survival of U.N. forces during the remaining days of the Korean War.

through them over the trench onto the Chinese as fast as he could pick them up and pull the pins. The rest of the squad followed the same drill; one man stayed in the bunker, firing his weapon through the aperture, while his buddy threw grenades from the trench. Gaiser could hear Bates roaring from the next bunker.

Reactionary- Revised 2000

By Lloyd W. Pate 1SG, U.S. Army, Inf., (Ret.)

Pow, Camp #5, #3, #1

I looked at the prisoners and couldn’t believe that men could get into this condition and still be alive. A lot of them were barefoot. They were running to the latrine without any pants on. They had defecated in their pants and were too sick to wash them even if water was available, which it wasn’t, and didn’t have another pair to put on. Some men couldn’t wear any pants because their testicles were so swollen from beri-beri they couldn’t pull their pants over them. I saw men with ankles puffed up as big as thighs. It seemed to me if you had touched them with a pin they would have burst like a balloon. Some of them had split, as though cut with a knife all the way to the bone. Their body fluids were draining out of them.

Practically every man had dysentery. It was caused by the filth they had to live in, and it just added to the filth. There was fecal matter all over the place, in the rooms, on the ground, on the porches. The sick men could not have made it to a latrine if there had been one available because of their weakened condition and the lack of control they had over their bowels. It wasn’t uncommon for a man to crap on himself or you, either, if you happened to be in the way.

The first day I was there, the Chinese called for a burial detail. I was on it with some of the men in my squad. We went into the death house, and it was a sight I’ll never forget. Some of the bodies were piled up and others just thrown around the room. There were forty or fifty in there. Most of them were just young men, not even twenty years old. Some had clothes on, and some didn’t. They were nothing but skin and bones. But what got to me the most was the expression on their faces. Every one of them had his mouth open as if he were asking a question: “Why?” or asking for someone to help him. Or maybe they were hurling their last curses at their tormentors. One had his arm resting against the wall with his middle finger extended in the air. God bless him, whoever he was. We thought as one.

I used to read in books and magazines how a dead man had a look of contentment on his face, as if he had just gone to sleep. It wasn’t so with these men. There was no look of satisfaction or smile of contentment. To look at them you’d think they were asking you to avenge them. They had suffered and died one of the most horrible deaths a man could have, a death by starvation. To know they died so horribly and unnecessarily put more hate in me than I thought a man could hold. If they had been fed, they would still have been alive. Just a few vitamins and a minimum of medical care would have saved most of these men. I felt if the Chinese wanted to kill us, why not just shoot us and get it over with, instead of letting us slowly starve to death?

Award

Sergeant Lloyd W. Pate
Infantry, United States Army, distinguished himself by meritorious service while a prisoner of war in North Korea. He organized groups of fellow prisoners to disrupt attempts at Communist indoctrination and harass their instructors. Each time the groups were disbanded because of informants, Sergeant Pate formed other resistance groups.

He also personally and openly voiced his true opinions, punished confirmed informers and in other ways obstructed the Communist indoctrination program. In spite of repeated severe punishment, he steadfastly defied all attempts at indoctrination and encouraged fellow prisoner of war to resist.

By his courageous example and leadership, he raised the morale of fellow prisoners, stiffened their resistance and contributed in great measure to the failure of the Communist program to convert prisoners of war to communism.

Sergeant Pate’s outstanding devotion to duty reflects credit upon himself and the military service.

(The only book over 25 pages that I have read in one setting from cover to cover. This book is 200 pages. It is so informative and well written that I just could not put it down. IF I KNEW
If I knew it would be the last time
That I’d see you fall asleep,
I would tuck you in more tightly and pray the Lord, your soul to keep.
If I knew it would be the last time
that I see you walk out the door,
I would give you a hug and kiss and call you back for one more.
If I knew it would be the last time
I’d hear your voice lifted up in praise,
I would video tape each action and word,
so I could play them back day after day.
If I knew it would be the last time,
I could spare an extra minute to stop and say “I love you,” instead of assuming you would know I do.
If I knew it would be the last time
I would be there to share your day, well I’m sure you’ll have so many more,
so I can let just this one slip away.
For surely there’s always tomorrow to make up for an oversight, and we always get a second chance to make everything right.
There will always be another day to say “I love you,”
And certainly there’s another chance to say our “Anything I can do?”
But just in case I might be wrong,
and today is all I get,
I’d like to say how much I love you and I hope we never forget.

Clear Day Fifty Years Of Memories
Woke up this morning with a terrible dream
Sweating so profusely I wanted to scream
Memories flooding into my mind
Memories the kind you don’t want to find
Thinking of the horrors of Korea fifty years ago
Horrors that seem to pass ever so slow
Remembering a mass grave dug at Koto-ri
Thinking of all the men I would never again see
I have been very lucky these past fifty years
Being able to bury the memories and the fears
Thinking back to Masan Korea listening to Chesty speak
Remembering so much from that epic week
New Years day nineteen-fifty-one
The sky so overcast no sight of the sun
Looking around to see how many of my men were there
Seeing so many are missing wishing I didn’t care
Wondering how this could have happened to me
Realizing it’s the price we have to pay to be free
But to lose so many men so many boys
Thrown away like so many broken toys
Politicians sitting in their offices so smug
Tossing the war reports in their desks with hardly a shrug
Complaining of the snow and the difficult drive
Wondering if they’ll miss the cocktail party at five Caring only that they have won another term
By God this year they’ll get a raise on that they’re firm
And in Middle America there’s a knock on the door
To the window you go to hang that Gold Star for all to see
Your husband your son died so they could be free
Buried in a hole in the frozen Far East
As his Senator sits down for a New Years feast
Troops coming home broken some with frost bitten feet
Hands shaking so hard they can’t hold a fork to eat
Trying to put their lives back together trying to forget it all
Sitting in a chair with glassy eyes staring at the wall
Being so moody so withdrawn never speaking at all
Shutting down all the memories from winter to fall
Yes I woke up with these memories in Two-thousand and one
These memories of Korea from Nineteen-fifty-one

OLD GLORY
The Korean dawn was breaking with the first hint of light as the detail was returning from a long, hard night.
The night had been savage,
full of flashes and sounds,
the hills were still shaking from the impacting rounds.
They had lost their direction trying to find their way back and still weren’t sure they were on the right track.
While they struggled on back
the sounds grew dim,
as they climbed each hill
to the top of the rim.
As they got to the top
and crested the last hill,
the heart rendering view
stays with them still.
They had made it back ‘home’
as they all knew,
for across the wide valley ‘Old Glory’ flew.

Recently the government of South Korea hosted three members of the S. S. LANE VICTORY in commemoration of the ship’s successful entry of U. S. Marines into Wonsan harbor and the extraction of over 7000 Korean refugees during the winter withdrawal in December 1950.

General Kim of the Korean Army, the U.S. Ambassador and Colonel Lee, Bong Jong thanked the crew of the LANE VICTORY for saving the lives of so many of their countrymen and assured them that it would never be forgotten. Captain William Carroll, Engineer Ernie Barker and Navy signalman Thom Hendrickson accepted the awards and medals in the name of the LANE VICTORY.

A second reception given by six members from North Korea who had been rescued by the ship’s crew honored the three men (Korean war Veterans) and thanked them on behalf of their community. They presented the LANE VICTORY representatives with a beautiful silver dish inscribed with an appropriate message of thanks.

Today, the LANE VICTORY remains as the only viable sea going victory ship from World War Two, Korea and Vietnam.

In preparation for the 50th anniversary commemoration of the Korean War; veterans of that war are being encouraged to register with the U.S. Korea 2000 Foundation, Inc. According to Veterans Administration statistics, less than 20% of Korean War Veterans belong to a national organization such as the VFW, DAV, or American Legion. The Foundation wants to locate the remaining 80% and notify them of the national and international events that will mark the anniversary. If you were on active duty between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953 send the following information to: U. S. Korea 2000 Foundation, Inc., 4600 Duke Street, Suite 420, Alexandria, VA 22304-2517

Tell us about your plans

There are many fine veterans organizations that are working on reunions and group trips to attend the commemoration events that will be held in Korea. Though we cannot organize reunions or group trips ourselves, we can help spread the word about your plans. Please let us know the “who, what, when, where” on your reunion or group trip and we can list the basics on our web site. Please provide a point of contact for the event, so that other veterans know who to contact. If your veterans group has a section on a web site involving a reunion or group trip, you can provide that information also. Since we are a government agency, we cannot recommend any commercial agencies, so we cannot list “Mary’s Military Tours of Korea, Incorporated,” etc. Please email the information to: <kw50ann@usfk.korea.army.mil>. Our regular mailing address is: 50th AKWC, PSC 303 Box 90, APO AP 96204.

I am an active-duty infantry officer currently pursuing a Ph.D. in military history. I’m researching the training activities conducted by Eighth Army in Japan from mid-1949 until the outbreak of war, and would like to hear from veterans of the Occupation and early weeks of the war regarding their opinion of training in Japan—was it realistic, did it prepare them individually or as a unit for combat, etc. My intent in writing is to correct the distortions that have arisen over the years regarding the average soldier spent the majority of his time training on his wartime mission—a conclusion backed up by several veteran interviews. I would welcome information from any veteran who served in the Eighth Army at any time between 1948 and 1950. Contact Thomas Hanson, Captain, United States Army at e-mail address <renegade06@earthlink.net> 96th Field Artillery Bn. Assn., is still looking for members that served in Korea from Sept. 1950 - July 1958. We have over 300 members located and our Assn. is active with reunions biennially. For information please contact Arnold Anderson, HC83 Box 116A, Custer, SD 57730. Tel: 605-673-6313.

I’m looking for news reels of the Korean War. My uncle was said to be in one. He was in Seoul, Korea from July of 1950 until he was a POW in October of that year. He was supposed to have died in a POW camp. Could you please help me find what I’m looking for. Contact Veronica Benner at e-mail address <grant-mudder@deepnet.com>.

I’m an author who’s currently working on a project about the Korean War (you can look up my books on Amazon; I write as Marie G. Lee). I am amazed at how much of a “forgotten war” it really is, especially considering all the attention given to WWII recently. I was wondering if there might be a way to get in touch with vets willing to let me ask a few questions about their war experiences. My father is also a vet, he was a liaison officer with the ROKA, in Pusan and Seoul, and through some contacts he made with his US Army colleagues, he was able to immigrate to the US after the war. I’m a second generation, but I have an almost obsessive urge to understand this war that turned my parents’ country upside down. Contact marie lee <marie_g_lee@yahoo.com>

I am a researcher for The Diversity Channel, an organization dedicated to furthering peace and understanding. I am writing you in hopes that you might be able to assist me in my research. What I am looking for is a personal account from a disabled veteran who might have visited Korea within the past three years. Specifically, we want to find out if his/her trip to Korea was a pleasant one, and find out if there were cultural or physical barriers that had negative impact during his/her stay. Your help would be most appreciated. Thank you very much, Raina Kim, The Diversity Channel at e-mail <rainaraina@yahoo.com>

I am looking for a buddy that I last saw at Ft. Sill, OK in 1952. I think he may have been heading for Germany, but not sure. His name is Ernest (Ernie) Ferguson and he was from Kentucky. I am Bob Webb from Marquette, Michigan. I sure would love to get in touch with him again. Contact Judy at e-mail <webbj@chartermi.net>

I would like to locate a Captain from Michigan whom served with the 37th. FA. Service Btry., 2nd Div. towards the end of 1953. I am sorry after all these years I can not remember names. I do know that he let me use his jeep to go over to the 25th Div to locate a friend of mine from my home town. All three of us are from Michigan. Contact Louis Bunker, 1720 Shore Dr., St. Ignace, MI 49781 or e-mail Angie Bunker <abunker@skyenet.net>.

The troops passing through Inchon, S. Korea, left an orphanage behind. It was organized by the Chaplains of the 110th Replacement Bn., of the 8th Army. It was called, in the Korean Language “Star of the Sea”. Can you give me the address of the KWV War Museum in Seoul, Korea? Perhaps they have a record of our orphanage. Contact Leon G. Johnson, Apt. 431, 105 Geneva St. Bath, NY. (No Zip Code, No envelope. Sent to Nancy Monson not editor.) Tel 607- 776-3098.

I am writing to you for information of an uncle of a very good friend of mine. His uncle Manuel G. Perez was (KIA) on 09/12/1951. He wants information on how Manuel was killed. His Service Number is US56075330 and he was in the 27th Inf.
Looking for Capt. Phillips, RN, she was in 47 MASH in 50-52. I have pictures of the MASH Unit when it was in tents, also of the terrain. Contact Walter O. Egli, 109 Elmwood Street, Lansing, KS 66043-12008 or e-mail <wegli37227@aol.com>.

Looking for any information on the Kongo Maru a Japanese ferry employed by the US Army to shuttle troops between Korea and Japan during the period of 1950-1951. While on a returned trip to Japan with 800 troops aboard the ship was struck by one of the wildest Pacific typhoon and wrecked by an coral reef causing the ship to list about forty degrees. The crew were Japanese and went over the side as the storm hit.

The troop commander was an Lt. Col. in the U.S. Army. He put me in-charge of damage control. I organized means to keep the water at a safe level for seventy-two hours. After the storm broke the US Navy picked us up off the ship with an amphibious craft (LCVP) Landing Craft Vehicle Personnel Carrier. I served with the 24th Infantry Regiment 25th Inf. Div. from Sept. 1950 to Oct. 1951. Contact Robert H. Yancey, Sr. at Fax: (609) 265-3184 or Phone (609) 499-0390.

As time passes I often wonder whatever happened to a small Korean boy I remember as Casey Jones. As a former Sergeant in the 38th Ordinance MM Co. and the 60th Ordinance Group, I was stationed at Seoul Korea.

The years were the last half of fifty-one until June of fifty-two. I remember him dressed as an American GI with the rank of Master Sergeant on his sleeve. During the morning roll call Casey stood with Master Sergeant Rhone and reported to the company commander. I was told that he had been taken on as the company mascot. Perhaps off the streets of Seoul as an orphan. I also remember the one Wallace Taylor, a sergeant that was instrumental in the appropriation of school supplies that his classmates are holding out front of them in one of the pictures. I don’t remember leaving Korea, but vividly I recall the small boy that we called Casey Jones.

If any of the members of KWVA are former people of my old outfit, I would certainly like to hear from you. I would appreciate your consideration in this matter. Contact Norman D. Lashley, 4220 Highway 31, Racine, WI 53405. E mail <Rainbow499@aol.com>

Looking for Cliff Clegg, who served with the 14th Infantry “Golden Dragons” in Korea, from Massachusetts. Contact Dick Sayers at 941-772-7027 or e-mail <rhsayers@netzero.net>.

I am looking for a man by the name of Joe White. He was in Korea the Dec. 1952, U.S. Army. Any information would be helpful. Contact Maggie Young at e-mail <myl4girl@hotmail.com>

We’re looking for our grandfather, who is considered to have died in the Korean War. Unfortunately, all we know about him is the fact that he was American. Photo is his picture taken in Japan. We would be very grateful if you may help us identify him. Contact Rina Tsukamoto and Maho Tanizaki at <djodjo@nifty.com>

Looking for anyone that enlisted before they were 17 years old. We may not be long time buddies, but we all have a common background. We want as many stories as we can about the super patriotic guys that used a lot of ingenuity to fool the recruiters about their age. Many interesting tales come out at our reunions and through our newsletters. Contact George R. Brouse, 100 Village Lane, Philadelphia, PA 19154. Tel: 1-800-595-1006.

My dad never talked very much about Korea so it helps. Photo of my father Ralph L. Davis (bottom) with two of his buddies taken in the summer of 1951. My dad was born in Girard, PA near Erie. I would be very interested in hearing from anyone who might recognize the faces in this picture. He was in the Air force and attached to 4077th MASH and was awarded the Silver Star. I am hoping I can find out from someone who knew him. I want to get his unit patch and the citation text for a shadow box. Contact Glenn Davis at <glenndavisl@hotmail.com>

First Division Marines listen to sermon by famed evangelist, Billy Graham. Fiery North Carolinian spoke to shivering audiences from Service Battalion movie stage. Graham also talked to wounded men on 20 December 1952.

On behalf of my late uncle, Cpl. Albert Ellsworth Boothroyd, who died a POW in Korea on January 31, 1951, I am writing in anticipation of locating someone who may have known or remembers my uncle. I was born one year after my uncle died and never had the opportunity to know him, but over the last three years my mission has been to locate anyone who may remember him. This venture has given me the opportunity to talk with many ex-POW’s and former veterans of the Korean War and it has been a learning experience as well as an emotional roller-coaster.

My uncle was captured on November 30, 1950 near Kunu-ri and died at Death Valley. He served with Svc Btry, 38th FA BN, 2nd Inf. Div.. My uncle left Ft. Lewis, Washington sometime in August 1950 arriving at Pusan, South Korea.

I am enclosing a picture of my uncle as well as a poem I wrote in his memory. I would also like to hear from his buddies and any events leading up to his death to share with my father, Albert’s brother.

A Soldier’s Sacrifice

He was an uncle I never knew;
Immortalizing tribute long overdue.
At age 17, he left home;
Joining the Army to be on his own.
A loving family he left behind;
To serve his country and mankind.
13 May 1949—his enlistment date;
31 January 1951 he met his fate.
25 June 1950 war broke out;
Off to Korea without a doubt.
Cold and wet he wrote in his last letter;
Expecting conditions wouldn’t get much better.
Taking on opposing forces;
Totally off familiar courses.
30 November 1950 at Kunu-ri;
The 2nd Division the Chinese did see.
His family home awaiting news;
He went to Death Valley, a place with no views.
Forty below with only summer wear;
Is more than most could ever bear.
Packed 20 to 30 in an 8x8 room;
Living each day in tumultuous doom.
Dysentery, exposure and malnutrition took his life;
News to his family cut thru like a knife.
A horse-drawn cart took him away;
To a place unknown still to this day.
His remains are in Korea, a place he was bound;
Resting place awaits him if he is ever found.
Albert Ellsworth Boothroyd was his name;
The Sacrifice he gave, being his only fame.
(Linda, I wish to add that your uncle has the greatest fame one may have and that would be to have a special niece like you that did not forget him. I can just hear him gathering his buddies around and saying “Look at the beautiful poem Linda wrote about me and our sacrifice. Guys we were not forgotten, we did not die in vain, they remember. Now we can rest.” Many thanks from all the veterans and families that lost loved ones. You are an Angel on earth. See “Letters” this issue.)

Background and Eligibility - Official Korean Veterans Association KVA (Seoul) Revisit Program

Background

The Korea Revisit program was begun by the Korean Veterans Association (KVA, Seoul) in 1975, the 25th Anniversary year of the outbreak of the Korean War, to express their gratitude to veterans of the Korean War and to show them the bountiful results of their sacrifices and devotion.

KVA Eligibility

- A. Korean War veterans and/or war correspondents of the 21 nations which came to the assistance of the Republic of Korea between June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953.
- B. Immediate family member of those killed in action in the Korean War.

Note: You are eligible to take a spouse or one immediate descendant with you. (Not a sister, brother, companion or friend.)

- The family member must be housed in the same hotel room with you in Seoul. (Descendants must be over 18.)

Privileges Extended Courtesy of KVA

- A. Hotel accommodations (2 persons per room), meals, tours, and transportation while in Korea for 6 days and 5 nights.
- B. Tour of Seoul and its vicinity: itinerary includes visits of Panmunjom, North Korean Invasion Tunnels, Korean War Memorial Monument, National Cemetery, National Museum, Korean Folk Village, Korean War Museum, plus other cultural/industrial facilities and activities in the Seoul area. (Other tours of battles sites and/or Inchon may be borne by each individual visitor who will fly with the group.)
- C. A special reception and dinner hosted by the President of the Korean Veterans Association (KVA) during which the Korean War Medal and Certificate of Ambassador for Peace will be awarded to each veteran. (Who have not received it before!).

Miscellaneous

- A. The KVA Revisit Program privileges are provided for scheduled groups only.
- B. Participants are required to be in possession of a valid passport. (A visa is not required for visits to Korea of 15 days or less.)
- C. KVA (Seoul) is not responsible for any loss of, or damage to personal or other items, medical expenses, injuries, or loss of life due to any accident of whatever nature during the revisits. Trip insurance is available and recommended.
- D. The cost of the airline ticket must be borne by each individual visitor who will fly with the group.
- E. Applications will be received/accepted on a “First-come, First-serve” basis.

Note: If you have previously accepted an official KVA (Seoul) Revisit tour from any sponsoring association or group) - you are not currently eligible to participate again. The reason for this is obvious; there are many veterans that have not gone before so, they get their “first right of return!” KVA Seoul now has all former revisit returnees in a computer database, so please don’t try and beat the system. We may not know it, and submit your name to KVA (Seoul), only to have it rejected. This could cause embarrassment for all of us, as well as, create a delay that could cause a bonafide Korean War veteran to miss the opportunity.

- F. Those desiring to use frequent flier miles (or other means of “Free” air transportation) will be required to pay a $100.00 (per person) administrative processing fee. Caution: Not traveling with the KWA group air contract, can result in much higher Post Tour costs to China and other Pacific locations!

Korea Revisit

By Warren Wiedhahn Chairman,
KWVA Revisit Program
Pusan - Inchon - Seoul - “Chosin”
1950

Dear fellow veterans and friends,

In the last Graybeards I informed you that we have received the 2002 Revisit quotas. Last week we received notice that the number of quotas per month would change significantly in that the World Cup Soccer games will be held in Seoul this summer. Consequently, they could not get enough hotel rooms in June. We will receive the same total number of quotas, however, the monthly distribution will be different.

Because of this change, it’s seriously requested that you don’t call the office requesting information on when the 2002 Revisit Tours are going. We will work this quota change out with KVA Seoul and you will be notified in writing just as soon as possible.

Because of the increased quotas this year, we still have a few spaces left in 2002 if you want to take a chance on going on the last revisit of the year 28 October-2 November. Actually, this has always been a very popular time to visit Korea. The weather is still warm during the days and all the tourists have gone home. We can spend a lot more time with the veterans.

A Reminder: Military Historical Tours always offers an optional 5 day extension to Beijing, China after the revisit tours. This is extremely popular and over 75 percent of the Revisit veterans and their families take this option since the five day extension is relatively inexpensive when you figure that the large air fare for crossing the Pacific, has already been paid. (Beijing is only two hours flying time from Seoul.) The other reason is the great mystery of China and the realization that you may never have this opportunity again!

Sincerely and fraternally,

Warren Wiedhahn

Alexandria, Virginia

THE GHOSTLY NINETEEN
KOREAN WAR VETERANS MEMORIAL
By John A. Battaglia

As I sit alone at this shrine so serene,
I reflect at the sight, of the ghostly Nineteen.
Was I one of these, ever frozen in place?
The scene returns, as I study each face.

In my youth I was one of them, intently alert,
For that first burst of fire, and someone who’s hurt.
They’d cry “Medic” and “Over here Doc”,
And I’d crawl to the victim, already in shock.
My hands trembling I tend to this soul,
And another cry “Medic”, leaves no time to console.

My memories are fading and the body grows worn,
But I’ll never forget, that land so forlorn,
That turned boys into men and ravaged so many.
While at home all were busy, turning a penny.
They forgot us then, but they won’t anymore,
For we’re building memorials, to settle the score.

As the figures plod on, in this park so pristine,
May God be kind, to the Ghostly Nineteen.
