Background

The Korea Revisit program was begun by the Ministry of Patriots and Veterans Affairs (MPVA/Seoul) in 1975 for the 25th anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War to express the Republic of Korea (ROK's) government's gratitude to Korean War veterans and their families also to show them the bountiful results of their sacrifices and devotion.

MPVA's Eligibility Requirements

Korean War Veterans who served in or supported ground, naval, or air operations in the Korean Theater between June 25, 1950 and October 15, 1954. Family members of deceased or disabled Veterans are eligible to participate in the "Korea Revisit Program." An eligible applicant is allowed to bring a family member or friend as a "travel companion." Korea Defense Veterans (1945 – Jun 24, 1950 and Oct 16, 1954 – present) are eligible to go when Korean War Veterans are not available.

Expanded Eligibility

1. For the 65th anniversaries (2015-19) there will be more quotas available. In addition, those who have been on a Revisit prior to 2011 can apply to return again. (Call MHT for more details)

I guess the relief from the decision provided me with great comfort, but it did not excuse the action of the squad. Regardless of the outcome, I was glad to get the hell out of the place—and fast.

The climb back up was more orderly and slower. When we hit the top, the sergeant headed off to his bunker. The missing squad had already disappeared into their bunkers. I spoke to Street about the men and their action. What did he plan to do about the incident?

There was no response. I saluted and returned to my bunker. I was left with the feeling that this could occur again. It was late and I was tired, too tired to contemplate future personnel problems. For the moment, I was glad to be alive and I thought it best to sleep on it.

Next morning, I confronted Lt. Street about his proposed action. He said that he had spoken to the colonel about the aborted mission. "There would be no further attempts to retrieve the head," he said. I was glad. Also, the colonel had informed him that no further action would be taken.

I suppose the war, in many ways, was still considered a "police action." The men basically received a warning for 'speeding.' For the official record, the soldier was listed as missing in action. Years later, I still have problems with the mission. Technically, I suppose, regulations require positive identification.
